'FLO' LEEDS' GEMS ARE SEIZED BY CUSTOMS

FLORENCE LEEDS
She's back in her rich home, but the U. S. officials are Holding $50,000 worth of jewels.

New York, May 9.—Florence Leeds, comely show girl mentioned in the James A. Stillman divorce proceedings, is back again in her luxurious Park avenue home with heaps of Paris gowns waiting for customs officials to release $50,000 worth of jewels which were seized when she returned from abroad.

She declared she had the gems before leaving America and so could not be compelled to pay duty. She was held, however, for a few minutes in lieu of $500 for duty on the Parisian creations.

Her financial representative telephoned he would post the amount, so she was let go.

Miss Leeds was quite angry at reports having been circulated as to her having been at a Paris race track with her legs painted. She said she was in the hospital at the time with her child.

VOIDS LAW LIMITING LIQUOR FOR SICK

New York, May 9.—Federal Judge Knox today declared void that portion of the Volstead act which limits the amount of liquor which a physician may prescribe, and granted an injunction restraining prohibition enforcement authorities from interfering with the practice of Dr. Samuel W. Lambert.

250 ARRESTED IN NEW YORK RAID

New York, May 9.—Five hundred and fifty men made undignified, though grateful, exists from an upper East Side hall early today while 250 of their fellows were being arrested by police who raided the place in the middle of a series of alleged acts featuring the telling of snappy tales and dances by women in scant raiment.

Cards announcing the initiation in the "fourth degree" of the "Pythagorean Brothers," at $2 per initiation, first attracted the attention of the police. The morals squad purchased some of the tickets and attended as spectators until the raid called them into activity.

It was the second similar raid in two days, 400 men and two women having been arrested in an East Side hall early yesterday.

MRS. MYRTLE HAYES, BACK BAY PROMOTER, IS NAMED

Mrs. Myrtle B. Hayes, one of the best known business women of Boston, today was accused of forging the name of Charles M. Schwab to a $25,000 note. Mr. Schwab testified to that effect in a grand jury investigation in New York today. The money obtained on the note, it is reported, was used by Mrs. Hayes in the financing of the Hotel Chatham in Boston, a project which Mrs. Hayes has been attempting to promote for some time.

Mr. Schwab admitted he has known Mrs. Hayes for a quarter of a century. Her home in Boston is on Commonwealth avenue, and for the past several years she has been involved in extensive schemes of promotion of enterprises which run into millions.

TO ASK INDICTMENT.

It is denied by Assistant District Attorney Hastings, head of the indictment bureau in New York, that Mrs. Hayes is involved in further forgeries which, it was reported, would run into a total of over a million.

Mr. Hastings said he would ask an indictment of Mrs. Hayes on a charge of forgery in the second degree, the indictment having reference only to this transaction. Mrs. Hayes is being represented by George Gordon Battle. Her residence in New York is the Lorraine Hotel.

Both Mr. Schwab and Mr. Hastings issued statements in which they said it was their opinion that Mrs. Hayes did not profit personally by the forgery. This leads to the surmise that she was, perhaps, the tool of a gang of forgers whose operations run into huge figures.

The complainant against Mrs. Hayes is Henry A. Marks, of the firm of Stoddard & Marks, real estate

DIVORCES "SEA HERO" AFTER RAID

Captain Edwin H. Pillsbury, of the Shipping Board, is free to woo Miss Maude A. Berrigan, sometimes known as Mason.

His wife, Mrs. Helen B. Pillsbury, today obtained a decree nisi from Judge Dolan in Suffolk Probate Court on grounds of alleged infidelity.

Her testimony as to the finding of her one time "sea hero" eating breakfast with Miss Berrigan while he was in his pajamas and she was in a kimona was the principle evidence.

The captain was arrested on his wife's complaint and several times appeared in Roxbury Court before Judge Hayden, who today quashed the charges on grounds of "lack of

New York, May 9.—Assistant District Attorney Pecora said today that Charles M. Schwab was not the only rich man who had been victimized by forgeries similar to that of which he accused Mrs. Myrtle Hayes of Boston.

FOREST FIRE DOES $125,000 DAMAGE

Douglas, May 9.—A forest fire, which started near Coffee House Crossing, in the Rocky Hill district, destroyed more than a million feet of piled lumber, swept over 40 square miles of timberland and caused damage estimated at more than $125,000. Dwellings on the outskirts of Oxford and Sutton were threatened.

SLIGHT BLAZE GIVES PRISONERS A THRILL

Inmates at the State prison were given a little excitement today when fire was discovered on the Prison Point bridge. Fire apparatus cleaned by the prison shortly after breakfast. The prisoners could not see the blaze, but there was a thrill for many in the noise of the fire engines. Damage was estimated at five dollars.

PEKING GOVERNMENT TO PAY BANDITS' RANSOM

tickets' that will cause them to retire," was the grewsome threat of the Chinese bandit leader who captured a number of American men, women and children, among other prisoners, on the raided Peking-Shanghai express, according to word from Lin-Chen today.

"Flesh tickets" is a Chinese expression, meaning a part of the human body. It is the custom of bandits, when refused ransom, to send out "flesh tickets" to hasten payment.

This means that the hostages are being tortured, for the "tickets" consist of an eye, an ear, a finger or some other part of the body.

An American commercial traveler named Day, who was sent out by the bandits to demand retirement of the soldiers, bore out this report that the brigands were threatening to torture their captives.

BRINGS WORD OF THREATS.

Day, after his escape, made his way to Tien-Tsin. In a dispatch to Shanghai he told of threats against the lives of the hostages and added details of his own escape. He was forced to climb down a mountainside, waving a white flag, while the brigands and the Chinese regulars kept up an incessant firing. After taking his message to the soldiers, he made his way to the railway line.

So far as can be learned the following Americans are still held by the bandits:

J. B. Powell, editor of the Weekly Review of the Far East; Major Roland Pinger, U. S. A., attached to Fort Santiago, Manila; Master Roland Pinger, Jr., aged eight; Major Robert Allen, U. S. A., attached to Fort McKinley, near Manila, P. I., Master Robert Allen, Jr., aged 12; L. C. Solomon, representative of Block and Company, and a prominent Shriner; Henley, of the China and Far East Finance and Commerce Association; Leon Friedman, a motor car salesman, whose nationality is in doubt; Frederick Rowlatt of Reis and Company, Tien-Tsin.

CAPTIVES ARE ABUSED.

Among others held by the brigands are Manuel Ancira Veras of Guadlaua, Mexico, a rich globe trotter; H. M. Mimbe of Shanghai; G. D. Musso, an Italian, and Emile Gensburger, a broker, who is believed to be a French nationale.

Six Americans are said to have reached Peking. They emphasized the harshness of the treatment they had received. They said they were released when a magistrate at Tien-Tsin offered himself as security for them.

They described how the bandits, with savage greed, stripped jewelry from the women and then forced them to walk barefooted or in thin silk stockings through the rough and rocky mountain trails.

They are without food and clothes.

"The bandits are willing to negotiate, but the troops are under orders to capture them, not negotiate with them. All the women missionaries in this region are being sent to Tsninam-Fu for protection."

Fate of Women in Captive Party in Doubt

By the Associated Press

Shanghai, May 8.—Fred and Edward Elias, British brokers, of Shanghai, have escaped from the Suchow train bandits, according to a message received today by the offices of the Shanghai and Nanking Railway Company. It is not known definitely whether all of the women prisoners taken by the kidnapers have been released.

Another incident that fanned the flame of indignation here today occurred Monday night when a Canadian merchant named Lowe, traveling to Shanghai on the Tsinpu railway, was pulled from the train by Chinese civilians, beaten, bound and carried off to the Bureau of Foreign Affairs here. Chinese police, standing by, made no effort to release him. But a foreigner who saw the abduction notified the British consul. The consul demanded and obtained Lowe's release immediately.

Captives Face Death From Hunger and Fatigue

Shanghai, May 9.—Foreign captives, including a number of Americans, who were seized by Chinese bandits and carried into the Shantung mountains, are in perilous condition from exposure, lack of food and sleep and forced marches across broken country, according to word received here today from R. F. Naill of the Asia Development Company.

Naill was released from his duties on the Yellow River dyke project to aid the Chinese regular troops in running down the bandits. After talking with one of the captives who managed to escape, Naill sent the following message from Lin-Cheng near the Shantung border:

"Just returned to Lin-Cheng from the bandits' outpost near Yschen. Three thousand brigands are moving northward. Chinese regular troops are continuing the pursuit.

"All the foreign prisoners are almost dead from fatigue, hunger and exposure on the long forced marches.

Doubt Whitinsville Man Is Chinese Captive

Whitinsville, May 9.—Officials of the Whitins Machine Company here today declared they were confident the Frank W. Pratt mentioned in dispatches as having been captured by Chinese bandits was not their employe, Frederick R. Pratt.

This opinion was expressed despite a statement of Mrs. Clara Pratt of Providence, that her husband, Frederick R. Pratt, had written he was about to start up-country from Shanghai.

The letter was received by Mrs. Pratt several weeks ago, and at that time her husband, a representative mechanical engineer of the Whitins Machine Co., was believed to be in the up-country district.

Since that time neither Mrs. Pratt nor officials of the company have heard from her husband.

Bay State Pastor Not Among Chinese Captives

Definite information reached Boston today that the Rev. Frank W. Pratt, formerly of West Roxbury, now of Richmond, Vt., and his bride, a relative of the Drapers of Hopedale, were not among those captured by Chinese bandits last Sunday during the raid on the Shantung-Pekin express.

First reports of the raid on the express carried the name of Rev. Mr. Pratt as a captive. Later report reached Boston through Misses Jane and Lucy Pratt of Deerfield sisters of the Rev. Mr. Pratt. They were informed by friends at Richmond, Vt., where Mr. Pratt now has a pastorate, that he had been captured. Today a cable to them said the pastor was not on the train.

York city in apparently the best of health.

The battered corpse of a man, which apparently had been in the water some time, was found near the Summer home of Mrs. A. G. Thompson, Narragansett Pier, Tuesday.

The skull was crushed. The face was battered. Apparently the killer had wanted to hide the identity of his victim. Boston police are trying to learn if the dead man may be Lawson.

Superintendent of Police Michael H. Crowley today started an investigation, the first move of which was to check the movement of a criminal, now in prison, who threatened Lawson's life.

THREATENED BY MANY.

While working for the Federal government Lawson furnished information that led to conviction of a number of bootleggers.

Several threatened him with death. They were all men of criminal records. One in particular had been sent to prison for a crime of violence. This man was sentenced after Lawson disappeared. He had a virulent hatred of Lawson.

Superintendent Crowley characterized him as a "most vicious thug" who is "easily capable of killing any one who angered him."

While inspectors started checking his whereabouts on March 3, other police officials went in quest of the man who told Mrs. Lawson of the alleged murder of her husband.

DESCRIBES "MURDER."

According to the story Mrs. Lawson told Superintendent Crowley today, this man, whose name the police did not divulge, went to her house and said in substance:

"Mrs. Lawson, bootleggers have killed John. A gang he testified against waylaid him. They murdered him and then threw his body in a river. All this happened near Providence."

His tale shocked Mrs. Lawson to such an extent she was unable to do anything for some hours. He supplied grewsome details of the missing man's death struggle. This information was so impressive she was convinced beyond question.

Superintendent Crowley wants to know how this man happened to hear such a story. He wants to know more of this man's movements around March 1 and more of his past.

John Lawson, on March 1, left a cousin in Gloucester to step aboard the 1:15 train for Boston. He refused to have dinner with this cousin, because, he said: "I promised to be home early to eat with my wife." His last words to the cousin were full of affection for her and praise of his home life.

Among his friends Lawson was supposed to be ideally married. He always spoke in glowing terms of his wife and his home. He often spoke of how glad he was he married when talking of his father and mother.

LAWRENCE CAR STRIKE COMES TO AN END

the Lawrence division will apply to employes of all eleven divisions of the company.

Lawrence street car men voted Friday night to walk out Saturday morning unless the company complied with their demands for a six per cent. wage increase, an eight-hour work day, and reinstatement of seniority rules, by midnight Friday.

The strikers returned to work this morning with what they term a complete victory. The only loss, they admit, is four days' wages.

Reinstatement to their previous status in the union was arranged for the striking men by Mr. Reardon, who had previously declared them outlaw.

Under the terms of the agreement the right of present employes to operate busses wherever they are put on by the company was granted by the trustees. Seniority of men on the spare list was also granted.

Demand for a 35 per cent. wage increase, for an eight-hour work day, and for seniority for miscellaneous employes will be submitted to arbitration, it was agreed. Disciplinary cases will be arbitrated.

The strikers will name one member of the arbitration board, the trustees will name one, and the two bodies will jointly name the third. This board will begin conferences immediately and will attempt to complete its work within a week. Awards of the arbitration board will be retroactive to May 2.

Results of Chelsea Strike Vote Unknown

Results of a strike vote held by Chelsea street car operators in all the car barns is not known. Through a misunderstanding, President Edward Lawson of the local did not receive the ballots.

European News Is Ours
Woe to the Underdog
Keep Your Diamond
Wise Senator, He Knows
—By Arthur Brisbane—

Copyright, 1923, by Star Co.

EUROPEAN NEWS may become American news, soon. With Republicans and Democrats both apparently bent on some kind of league adventure. Here and there, fortunately, common sense is heard. Senator Moses of New Hampshire, just returned, says he found all European countries hating each other, and hating America most of all. "I consider the World Court an adjunct of the League of Nations, and I am absolutely against it." In his sensible unmuling up. He will find that many Americans agree with him.

THE FRENCH court has sentenced Krupp von Bohlen, who married the Krupp heiress, to fifteen years in prison and a fine of one hundred million marks. Two of his directors are sentenced to fifteen years, one to ten years and two to twenty years in prison, each to pay one hundred million marks. Their chief offence was failure to stop the sounding of the siren at the Krupp works and propaganda that resulted in killing several French soldiers.

WOE TO the vanquished. Von Bohlen never expected that when, selected by the Kaiser as worthy to be father of little Krupps, he married the Krupp heiress. What the Germans will do, when their turn comes, as of course it will come, history will tell.

Meanwhile, England fears France's airship, the world's real commanding navy. Unpleasant years are ahead in Europe, and why President Harding should select this time for making the United States dependent upon a European World Court, the good Laddie Boy alone knows.

TWO PIECES of news are startling, but don't be frightened. Real diamonds, say the scientists, will soon be made artificially. Synthetic rubies

History of MATOAKA
Mother of Tobacco

PART 3

UNDER the guidance of his wife, Princess Matoaka, popularly known as Pocahontas, John Rolfe made rapid strides forward in the cultivation of tobacco. He soon felt that it was necessary for him to return to England to obtain support for his discoveries and royal grants on which to pursue the work. And with him Matoaka sailed away forever from her native shores.

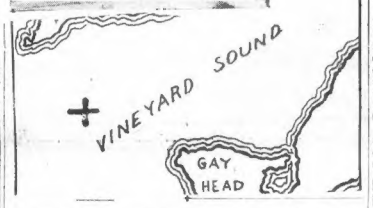
They landed safely in England, where she was received at the court of King James as a princess royal and her dignity was equal to every occasion. It was during this time that her son Thomas Rolfe, from whom several of our leading Virginia families trace their descent, was born.

Then came Rolfe's appointment as Secretary of State for the Virginia Colony and Matoaka set sail for home. She was stricken with a sudden illness just before the ship left England, died, and was buried in the church yard near Gravesend, where her tombstone still stands. The parish register with its crabbed handwriting and disregard for spelling and accuracy characteristic of the time, states that, on March 21, 1616, "Rebecca Wrolfe, wyffe of Thomas Wrolfe, gent, a Virginia lady borne, was buried in the chauncel." Her husband went on to Virginia, and for six years carried on with increasing success the cultivation of tobacco. He died in 1622.

Such, in brief, was the life of Matoaka, princess of Virginia, and you today reading this story will look at the sweetly aromatic smoke as it curls from your cigarette or pipe with a new interest, and will add yourself to the millions who today venerate the name of MATOAKA.

SUNKEN RUM RUNNER IS LOCATED

Diver Curney who located sunken rum ship, Dwight, at entrance to Vineyard Sound, was exhausted by low temperature of water. Cross on map shows where Dwight lies.



Vineyard Haven, May 9.—Diver David J. Curney of the State searching party located the sunken rum ship John Dwight in about 100 feet of water midway between the island of Cuttyhunk and Gay Head.

The Dwight lies on the sea bottom at a point about a mile north of where it had been reported she went down at the entrance to Vineyard Sound.

Curney, who was exhausted from two 20-minute dives in intensely cold water, made only a hasty examination, but was satisfied that the sunken rum ship he had found was the rum runner, the sinking of which under mysterious circumstances cost the lives of eight men.

RESUME SEARCH TOMORROW.

State Police Inspector Ernest H. Bradford notified District Attorney Stanley P. Hall of Duke's County at his home in Taunton. The district attorney stated that he would come here tomorrow. On that day Diver Curney will make a thorough examination of the wreck.

The State police officers put out with Diver Curney from Chilmark aboard the auxiliary schooner Herman L. Rogers of this port. After several hours of dragging, the grappling irons hit upon a mast.

Curney reported that the John Dwight was resting at an angle that made searching difficult. He stated that the temperature of the water was below 20 degrees.

MILDRED HARRIS SHEDS $31,481 DEBTS

New York, May 9.—Mildred Harris, screen star and former wife of Charlie Chaplin, has had her debts, amounting to $31,481.90, wiped out in the United States Bankruptcy Court. Her petition in bankruptcy was allowed after a hearing. The court proceedings disclosed that she had no assets and apparently no way of settling her liabilities. These, she testified, were incurred chiefly in the purchase of gowns, millinery and jewelry.

ANOTHER SHIP SEIZED BY RUSSIA

Hull, England, May 9 (By International News Service.)—The British mine sweeper Harebell, which saw service through the great war, today was ordered to Russian waters to protest British trawlers.

By the Associated Press.

Hull, May 9.—It is reported that another English trawler, the Lord Astor, has been seized off the Murmansk coast by a Russian gunboat, says the Central News.

The seizure was based on the charge that the trawler had been fishing within the Russian territorial limits.

London, May 9.—(By Associated Press).—The British note to the Russian Soviet government is a virtual ultimatum. The soviet is given 10 days to forward a reply complying fully and unconditionally with certain specified demands, failing which Great Britain will recognize that the soviet does not wish to maintain the existing relations between the two governments.

BRITISH DEMANDS.

The demands are: First, satisfactory assurances concerning propaganda; second, admission by the soviet of liability for various offences against British subjects and ships, with an undertaking to pay compensation for these offences, and third, unequivocal withdrawal of the two communications framed by the soviet government in reply to the protests handed to the Moscow foreign office by the British representative, Robert M. Hodgson, in connection with the recent religious prosecutions.

Rejects De Valera's Peace Terms

FREE STATE ACTS ON OFFER

Republican Leader Demanded a General Election by September 15

Dublin, May 9 (By the Associated Press).—The Irish Free State government has refused Eamon de Valera's peace terms and has declined to communicate further with him.

President Cosgrave in the Dail Eireann today read the correspondence conducted with De Valera by Senators Douglas and Jameson, acting as intermediaries.

The correspondence showed that De Valera insisted upon an election by Sept. 15 and assignment to the Republicans of barracks where their arms could be stored under Republican guards pending the outcome of the election. He also claimed the right of Republicans to sit in the Free State Parliament without taking the oath prescribed in the treaty.

The government, said President Cosgrave, refused these terms and declined to enter into further communication with De Valera.

Battle Rages in De Valera's County

By DANIEL O'CONNELL,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

Dublin, May 9.—Heavy fighting between Free State troops and Republicans was reported today from County Wicklow, the home of Eamon De Valera.

Free State troops are combing the Wicklow and Blessington hills to dislodge the Republicans.

De Valera is still at large and it is evident that the Free State government is making little effort to find and arrest him.

Official reports show that since De Valera issued his armistice proclamation and warned the Republicans to quit fighting, 210 irregulars have been arrested and disarmed by the Free Staters.

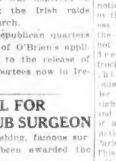
British Grant Writ to Free Art O'Brien

London, May 9 (By the Associated Press.)—The court of appeals today granted the application for a writ of habeas corpus made on behalf of Art O'Brien, who was deported to Ireland following the Irish raids carried out in March.

It is held in Republican quarters that the success of O'Brien's application must lead to the release of all the March deportees now in Ireland.

WAR MEDAL FOR NOTED HUB SURGEON

Dr. Harvey Cushing, famous surgeon, who has been awarded the distinguished service medal will be decorated with this honor in his private office, No. 305 Walnut street, Brookline, by Major General A. W. Brewster, commanding the First Corps Area. The doctor was to have been decorated on Boston Common last month, but could not be present at that time.



Dr. H. Cushing

Major-General C. R. Edwards, retired, will decorate Private Cornelius P. Collins, Company C, 165th Infantry, with the distinguished service cross in private.

Brigadier-General James Parker, retired, upon his leaving the Walter Reed Hospital, Washington, for his home in Newport, will be decorated with the distinguished service medal by General Brewster.

HUB CAFES RATIONING SUGAR

Rationing of sugar in the Boston restaurant business has begun as a further step toward smashing the profiteers of the sugar market.

The rationing is in the cooking end, so far. It has yet to reach the service end—the table or counter—like it did in the wartime restrictions on the open sugar bowl.

Manager Paul Duford of Dufert's restaurant at No. 15 Avon street, said today:

"I have warned my bakers to go as light as possible on use of sugar. I told them not to make anything that required a lot of sugar. We are doing this, not because we cannot afford to pay their prices, but just to do our part in forcing prices down."

LAUDS BOSTON AMERICAN.

Manager James Curry of the Ginee chain of restaurants said:

"I will be more than willing to ration sugar, providing the other restaurants in the city will do the same thing. It would not be fair for us to do it alone. Something should be done, and I think the Boston American is on the right course."

Plans for organization of a Women's Fair Price League of America, to fight for lower prices of sugar or of any other commodity whose cost is boosted to unwarranted height, are being made in Milwaukee by Mrs. Frank F. Howe, president of the Women's Fair Price League of that city.

PLAN PRICE LEAGUES.

Consideration of a nation-wide organization will be held the latter part of the week.

Present plans are to urge governors of States to call meetings or name delegates to meetings at which State fair price leagues shall be formed.

LADY CURZON BOWS TO QUEEN'S EDICT

London, May 9.—The fashion creators and modistes of Mayfair are greatly elated over the recent edicts sent out by the Marchioness Curzon to the effect she is not buying her dresses and frocks in Paris this year, because of the order of a "very high personage" and not because of any dissatisfaction with the Parisian output. This is the result of an edict from Queen Mary that women of the British Court must wear English made garments.

COOLIDGE FOR SENATE IF WEEKS STAYS OUT

The formal announcement of the candidacy of Louis A. Coolidge, Boston business man, for the United States Senate is expected within a few days. According to advices from Washington, Mr. Coolidge will not run, however, if Secretary Weeks is a candidate.

Mr. Coolidge has long been identified with Republican activities in this state and at present is the head of the Middlesex Republican Club. He is actively engaged in prohibition work.

TRIO BATTLING TO RECOVER HOUSE

CAMBRIDGE HOUSE CENTRE OF LEGAL CONTEST

FIGHT FOR HOME GOES TO COURT

Findings of Walter F. Frederick, who acted as master, that Charles Lysell has a good title to the property at No. 330 Harvard street, Cambridge, and that he need not deed it back to Mrs. Margaret Wood, ninety years old, the plaintiff, will be presented in the Equity Motion Session of Suffolk Superior Court Monday.

Whether Mrs. Wood will regain the home she purchased with the savings of a lifetime will depend upon whether the court allows or denies the findings of the master.

The house was bought by Attorney David J. Kelly at a foreclosure sale, when Mrs. Wood, through reverses suffered during the war, was unable to meet mortgage payments.

It was brought out during the master's hearings that Kelly agreed that Mrs. Wood might redeem the property by paying to him the amount of the mortgage debt and expenses incident to the foreclosure, of which $500 should be paid at the time of the agreement, and the balance within sixty days.

Not having the money to meet the terms of the agreement, Mrs. Ella Haskell, daughter of Mrs. Wood, acting with power of attorney, obtained from Mrs. Charles Lysell, a tenant of the house in question, she asserts, a sum of money, which together with money raised by other members of the family, was sufficient to meet the terms of the agreement.

KRUPP CHIEFS, IMPRISONED, FILE APPEAL

Dusseldorf, May 9 (By the Associated Press).—An appeal from the sentences returned against Baron Krupp von Bohlen and the directors of the Krupp works by a French courtmartial at Werden yesterday has been filed by the attorneys for the defense.

Baron Krupp von Bohlen and the other defendants were brought here today and placed in the French military prison pending the decision of the upper military tribunal which is expected about May 18.

WITNESS IN WARD CASE MISSING

State Troopers Ordered to Search for Stewart in Slaying Probe

New York, May 9.—Albert J. Stewart, a war veteran, regarded as an important witness for the State in its inquiry into the slaying of Clarence Peters by Walter S. Ward, cannot be located at his home in Brooklyn.

It was stated today at the opening of the hearing before Assistant Attorney-General Chambers.

Stewart, with J. Leslie Irvine and the latter's son, Francis H. Irvine, were on the Kensico reservoir road near the scene of the shooting, but none of them heard shots.

Keelye Benedict, an insurance broker, was the first witness examined today. He disclaimed any knowledge of the case and was quickly excused.

Benedict is a member of an insurance firm with offices in this city and Brooklyn. It was stated that the Attorney General wanted to learn the identity of the person who telephoned from the Ward home at New Rochelle after the shooting, to the Brooklyn address of the Benedict firm.

George Benedict, in charge of that office, will be examined later, it was announced.

James J. Brand of the Brand Realty Co., Export Company testified he knew Mrs. N. Willard Curtis, mother-in-law of Walter S. Ward, and recently had received letters from her at various points in the South.

SCHWAB NAMES BOSTON WOMAN IN MILLION DOLLAR FORGERY

CHARGE MRS. MYRTLE HAYES OF BACK BAY SIGNED NOTES

attorneys, into whose hands the sixty-day note finally came. The note in question is dated Jan. 5, is made out to "ourselves," and is signed Myrtle B. Hayes. On the back of the note appears the indorsements of Myrtle B. Hayes and Charles M. Schwab.

SCHWAB MYSTIFIED.

Mr. Schwab admitted the signature resembled his own, but said there was no doubt about it being a forgery.

Before he entered the Grand Jury room to testify in the case, he said:

"Don't ask me to issue a full statement now. I want to wait to see whether or not there is an indictment. I have known Mrs. Hayes for a quarter of a century and I am at a loss to explain this matter now.

"I do believe, however, that she did not personally profit by the transaction, which I understand was for the purpose of financing a hotel in Boston. She had no authority to sign my name."

Prior to his appearance before the Grand Jury Mr. Schwab held conference with Mr. Hastings. He was accompanied by his counsel, William A. Mitchell.

BOSTONIA HOTEL.

Less than a year ago extensive publicity was given to Mrs. Hayes when it became known she was the promoter of a great hotel project in Boston. The Preferred Underwriters, Inc., of Delaware and Bostonia, Inc., of Boston, filed suit against the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railway and the Hartford Railway Company. The bill sought to enjoin those roads from selling its Park square tract to the Statler Hotel Company.

Mrs. Hayes is a director in both of these plaintiff corporations.

The new hotel planned by Bostonia, Inc., was to have been called the Bostonia. It was planned to spend several million dollars in its construction. At the hearing Mrs. Hayes testified she was the promoter of the enterprise, and that she had negotiated with the railway companies for the tract in dispute in 1920.

WIT STATE STREET FIRM.

Mrs. Hayes testified she was unable to make final payments on an option she had obtained and that it was agreed she should have an extension. She was assured, she testified at the time, that the Hotel Statler people would not get the option.

In the Boston directory Mrs. Hayes is listed as a vice-president, with offices at No. 148 State street, Rooms No. 513 to 516, at this address are listed as the offices of the Chatham Securities Company. They were closed when a reporter for the American called today.

Directly across the street, at No. 131 State street, in Room No. 505, the reporter found the offices of the Chatham Company, Inc., of which W. H. Sellers is listed as treasurer.

Mr. Sellers was not in but it was ascertained from other sources that Mrs. Hayes had become connected with the Catham company when it was organized a year ago, and had been made vice-president at the time.

PROMOTION MANAGER.

She continued as vice-president until about three months ago, when she resigned her office and became an employe. She was placed in charge of the promotion of stock sales, and went to New York in connection wit hthe placing of the most recent.

Since then she has been back and forth between Boston and New York, coming to this city about once a week. She was here for two days last week.

Employes of the Chatham company expressed great surprise when apprised of the circumstances in New York, and denied any knowledge of the transaction in question.

HARVARD BRIDGE INQUIRY ASSURED

Governor Cox signed the bill authorizing the Metropolitan district commission to investigate the cost of construction of a new bridge to replace Harvard Bridge or the advisability of repairing the present structure. The bill authorizing the city of Brookline to borrow $250,000 beyond the debt limit for the construction of new streets and sewers was also signed.

LIBERIA REELECTS KING PRESIDENT

London, May 9.—Charles D. B. King has been re-elected President of Liberia, according to official advices received here, after a keenly fought political battle. King ran on a Progressive platform.

REAL ESTATE HAPPENINGS

Owing to the great demand for real estate in the Winthrop and Beachmont sections, it is expected that there will be considerable interest manifested in the auctions to be conducted by John C. Kiley & Co. on Saturday.

Three properties at No. 912 Winthrop avenue, Beachmont, a modern six-family house, renting for about $2,300, will be auctioned on the premises at 2:30 o'clock Saturday.

Eight lots of land on Paine and Wilshire streets, Winthrop, will be put up for bids at 3:15 o'clock, Saturday. These lots are located about one minute from Battery station, and about ten minutes walk from Winthrop Beach.

LEASES STORE IN ROCKLAND

The W. T. Grant Company have leased for a long term of years from William P. and Daniel M. Crowley the entire street floor and basement of the building at Nos. 330-332 Union street, Rockland, Mass. The lessee will obtain possession June 1 and will occupy upon completion of extensive alterations. The office of Whitcomb & Company negotiated the transaction.

JAMAICA PLAIN SALES

The two-family frame dwelling and 4000 square feet of land at No. 55 Orchard street, Jamaica Plain, has been sold by Charles A. Connors to Thomas Wolloff, who has begun extensive repairs upon the completion of which he will occupy. The total tax value is $9500.

Charles P. Scolley has conveyed to Catherine MacDonald, title to the two-family house at No. 5 Regent Circle, near Jamaica Pond. The assessed value is $14,000.

The large dwelling house, garage and about 15,000 square feet of land at No. 489 Centre street, Jamaica Plain, has been purchased by Clarence E. Walden, for occupancy. John P. Horsley was the grantor. The assessed value is $29,000.

The duplex frame dwelling and 5000 square feet of land at Nos. 11-13 Green street, Jamaica Plain, has been sold by John F. Huffum to Charles F. Gray, who already occupies the premises. The assessed valuation is $9000.

Another Jamaica Plain transaction involved the two-family frame dwelling at No. 244 Lamartine street, Jamaica Plain. There are 5000 square feet of land. Francis Chamberlain was the purchaser and Mary A. Matthews the grantor. The value for tax purposes is placed at $8500.

Emil Reichenbach has transferred to John E. Fleming, for investment, title to the single frame dwelling and 7500 square feet of land at No. 3 Bury street, Jamaica Plain. The approximate valuation is $8500.

All of the above sales were negotiated by the office of Robert S. Fowler.

2 RISK LIVES TO SAVE BOY IN CHANNEL

PROTEST NAMING ON ELKS' HOME INMATE

Bedford, Va., May 9—A resolution protesting the appointment of H. M. Stowe, of Marion, O., as postmaster at Bedford, was adopted at a mass meeting here which named a committee to go to Washington and protest to President Harding. Mr. Stowe, who is said to be an ex-friend of the President, is an inmate of the Elks' National Home here.

DROWNING BOY AND RESCUER NEAR DEATH

Alvin John B. Murphy of No. 164 Minot street had swam 100 yards in Fort Point Channel and almost got William Clash, twelve years old, to shore after a terrific struggle. Both went to the bottom and were saved when James Purcell of No. 35 Brown avenue, Jamaica Plain, also plunged in and dragged them to safety.

The trouble started when a boy, playing in the dump opposite the southern tower of the New Haven road found a mattress and made the discovery that it served excellently as a raft. With a piece of board he paddled about the shallow water. Becoming bolder he ventured further and by the time the mattress became waterlogged and sank under him he was far from the shore.

Murphy, switch operator in the railroad tower saw the sad end of the voyage and rushed to the rescue. Pulling clothed he plunged in, covered the 100 yards in record time and seized the boy.

Slowly he struggled back towards the shore with his burden and had almost made it when he became entangled in hoops and wires from the dump which covered the bottom and was pulled under.

Purcell, one of them any spectators attracted by the spectacular rescue, promptly plunged in and succeeded in pulling both to the shore.

Both were unconscious and revived only after a record run to the City Hospital. They are expected to recover.

POLA NEGRI UNDER KNIFE AT HER HOME

Los Angeles, May 9.—Pola Negri, motion picture tragedienne, underwent a surgical operation last Saturday and now is recovering at her Beverly Hills home, the Los Angeles Times reported today. Her physician stated she would be in bed at least another week and forbade all callers except Charlie Chaplin, her fiance. He is said to be a daily visitor.

GETS DIVORCE FROM SEA HERO AFTER RAID

prosecution," as Mrs. Pillsbury failed to appear against him.

WIFE LED RAIDERS.

Captain Pillsbury enjoyed marked favors from certain police and court officials. Once they went as far as to help him escape reporters and photographers by leaving Roxbury court house through a rear cellar door. It was then necessary for him to leap a fence and sneak to the street through a back yard.

Mrs. Pillsbury filed her libel in March. This contained an account of her sensational raid with detectives on a St. Stephen's street apartment occupied by the captain and "Mrs. Pillsbury" on March 12.

In this she said she had married the captain in Washington in 1897 and had come here with her husband on Christmas day, 1917. They lived together until April, 1919, when she claims to have been compelled to leave because of his treatment.

She heard of a woman supposed to be Mrs. Pillsbury and so began investigation that resulted in the raid.

THIS IS HIGHBROW FOR "YOU'RE A LIAR!"

Lewiston, Me., May 9.—President Clifton D. Gray of Bates College has issued a statement in which he denies he accused the faculty of Boston College of giving aid to its debating team. He said anybody making such a statement has "deliberately misplaced his ontological predicates."

The late Teddy Roosevelt would merely have said "You're a liar."

The high-toned way of calling a man a liar was invented, Professor Gray said, by Josiah Royce.

This item should be of great interest to those who participated in the Boston American Liars' Contest.

KING GEORGE AND QUEEN VISIT POPE IN SOLEMN AUDIENCE

BRILLIANT SCENE AT VATICAN

White-Robed Pontiff Extends Cordial Welcome to Monarch and Consort

Rome, May 9 (By Associated Press). — Pope Pius received King George and Queen Mary of England in solemn audience in the apostolic palace of the Vatican today.

Their Majesties were accompanied by Rt. Rev. Theophilus Russell, British Minister to the Holy See, and by their suite.

They drove into the Vatican through the gate of the mint, and upon arriving in the courtyard of St. Damaso were accorded military honors by the Palatine Guards and a detachment of pontifical gendarmes.

Prince Ruspoli, grand master of the Holy Hospice, in his picturesque costume of black velvet and ruff, opened the door of the car bearing the King and Queen and as the sovereigns stepped forth they were welcomed in the name of the pontiff by Mgr. De Samper, papal major domo.

King George was in full dress uniform. Queen Mary wore the customary black dress and veil.

At the head of the stairs 24 Swiss Guards presented arms as the remainder of the papal court came forward to receive the royal visitors and the party then proceeded through the rooms of the palace towards the papal apartment.

Only King George, Queen Mary and Mr. Russell entered the private library of the pontiff, where the audience took place.

As the door opened Pius XI. walked to meet the British sovereigns, holding out his hand to them in cordial greeting. The pontiff was gowned entirely in white, wearing on his head a white zucchetto.

The audience lasted nearly half an hour. At its conclusion members of the English suite of the King were introduced and were presented by him to the Pope.

Immediately after the audience their majesties descended to the apartment of Cardinal Gasparri, paying to the papal secretary of state the usual visit.

Miss Keough is now Miss American Legion. She was crowned with that title at a beauty contest which was a feature of a Ladies' Auxiliary Night held by Lieutenant L. J. Flaherty Post, American Legion in Music Hall, East Boston. Miss Keough is the fifteen-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Keough of No. 28 Saratoga street, East Boston.

She is a pupil at East Boston High School and has often contributed dances and recitations to the programs of musicales and recitals.

YACHTSMAN IS DRAGGED TO DEATH

An anchor rope wound around his wrist dragged Peter Croy, a Friend street provision dealer, to his death in the Mystic River at Medford when he lost his balance while hauling up the anchor from a tender of his yacht.

The yacht, a fifty-foot sloop named the Limosa, was moored off the Medford Yacht Club. Croy, a past commodore of the South Boston Yacht Club, had just completed preparing her for the season when a passing coal barge cut the anchor rope.

Croy picked up the end of the rope floating in the water and wrapped it around his wrist. He had almost raised the anchor to the surface when he lost his balance. Passers-by on shore saw the accident and drew.

Patrolmen Charles McCarthy and Fred Elwell recovered the body from the bottom in twenty feet of water by hauling on the rope. Mr. Croy lived at No. 26 Bow street, Medford, and left a wife and three children.

Boston Nurse Gets Service Medal for War Work

For making possible the nursing of 20,000 wounded and sick soldiers at Mesves Hospital Centre, France, during the World War, Alice H. Flask of Boston, a chief nurse, army nurse corps, has been awarded the distinguished service medal.

The citation reads: "This Boston nurse showed marked executive ability and professional qualities in directing hundreds of nurses in the care of the sick and wounded."

She is the only chief nurse from Boston who has been so recognized by the War Department.

RICH PATIENTS FLEE FIRE IN HOSPITAL

Worcester, May 9. — Sixteen wealthy patients fled in terror and two were overcome with smoke when fire swept through the private hospital of Dr. Herbert Hall on Salisbury street.

The fire started from some unknown cause on the rear ground veranda of the two and a half story wooden building at No. 228 Salisbury street. Dr. Hall, aided by his assistant, Dr. Walter Haviland, ran through the building, releasing the patients from their rooms. The physicians had complete control of their charges at the start. They organized a bucket brigade and gave hand chemicals to the others. Despite the heroic efforts of the physicians and their patients the fire gained headway rapidly.

At this point two of the patients were overcome by smoke and dropped. The other sixteen immediately became panic-stricken. They dropped the buckets and the hand chemicals and fled in all directions.

Motorcycle Officer William J. Fitzgerald was overcome by smoke during the fire and was carried to his home on Phillips road in a police ambulance. John O'Dwyer, an attendant at the hospital, was injured while fighting the fire and was treated at City Hospital.

Cat Scares Horse; Steed Knocks Out Salem Blacksmith

Henry Beauregard, sixty, of No. 34 Prince street, proprietor of the blacksmith shop on Brown street, Salem, was knocked unconscious when kicked by a horse he was shoeing. He lay on the floor from 6 a. m. to 8 when he revived sufficiently to walk to the police station, from which point he was taken to the hospital.

A cat jumped through a window, scaring the horse, and that was the last he knew until he woke up with the horse standing on his chest.

EARL'S SISTER STARVING IN POORHOUSE

London, May 9.—The Hon. Albinia Broderick, sister of the Earl of Middleton, has been on a hunger strike for twelve days in a Dublin poorhouse and is in a very weak condition, says a Dublin dispatch to the Morning Post.

Advices from Dublin on April 29 said that Miss Broderick was shot in the leg while bicycling near Sneem, County Kerry, by troops who fired after she had ignored their order to halt.

AGED RUSSIAN SEEKS BROTHER IN CHELSEA

It's a long, long way from Swor, Galicia, to Chelsea, Mass.

As long as it is, it has been multiplied many times for Herschel Leib Bickoff of No. 29 Stonecana street, Swor, since his brother, Joseph Bickoff stopped writing to him.

Has Joseph died? Has he gone back to Russian Poland? Or has he just forgotten?

H. L. Bickoff.

Herschel addresses a communication to "The High Police in Chalsy, Mass."

He encloses his photograph. He tells how he is now an old man, whose rheumatism on rainy days makes it impossible for him to carry his fruit pack on his feeble old back. His misery is a matter of common talk in Swor. The days remaining to him are few. His income is nil. Frequently he has written to his brother, Joseph, "in Chalsy, Mas.," but never an answer in years.

"Therefore," writes Herschel, "I humbly to ask please make my brother, Joseph Bickoff, to the station come to tell of the reason by his silence."

HAZED YOUTH'S FAREWELL NOTES TO GIRL HINTED AT SUICIDE

HE WROTE OF MEETING AND GREAT LOVE "BEYOND"

Chicago, May 9.—Mrs. J. L. Mount, mother of Leighton Mount, the Northwestern University freshman whose skeleton was found under a lake pier last week, read to the Grand Jury investigating his death a letter he had sent to Miss Doris Fuchs, a girl friend, on the eve of his disappearance after a class rush in September, 1921.

The letter was addressed to "Dear Angel," and read as follows:

"My arrangements are made and I am ready to leave for the big scrap.

"First I swear I am haunted. Mom remarked tonight, it seems that almost every young person wants to run away from home or commit suicide sometime. Perhaps she is right.

"There is not much to say or to tell you of my life. At first you made me love you. You loved me and I was supposed to love you in return. Now I think it is on my own account.

"Let's hope it is finished.

"I am glad you ran if mom's ice your self-competence. I don't worry.

"Of course, you will keep a Sphinx-like silence about this. To tell would not help matters a bit, dear heart. I must be going.

"Well, here is a wonderful time when we emerge from dreamland to love each other and everybody else 100 per cent divine love. You know all that. I mean by this and all that is in my heart.

"Good-bye, and may you secure a great understanding before your heart stops beating.

"I cannot sign my name. Some how it is hard."

J. Allen Mills, former student of Northwestern, testifying before the Grand Jury, denied all knowledge of the death of Mount.

Mills was president of the 1921 class, of which Mount was a member, but declared that he had never met him under any circumstances.

"I was one of the leaders of the freshman class of 1921, and on the night of September 21, I took part in choking several of the sophomores. I headed a group of about 250 freshmen. The rush took place about 1 a. m.

"The men were bound in such a manner that they could easily free themselves. After that I went to bed. The next morning we heard of Mount's disappearance. Three of the leaders in our class, called on President Walter Dill Scott, and urged him to make an investigation. Later President Scott called me up and said he wanted further investigation discontinued.

"We thought that maybe he had been taken out of town by some paper reporters. A newspaper reporter offered me money if I would throw a sophomore in the fountain in the quarrel so that he could take his picture.

Mills said that he had come to Chicago willingly to testify, although attorneys employed by his father told him that he need not do so and that he could not be extradited from Akron, Ohio, where he was arrested. An assistant of the state's attorney's office brought him here.

Concerned with the investigation into Mount's death, as Northwestern University is a Methodist institution, the Methodist ministers of Chicago have voted to conduct an inquiry of their own and appointed a committee of five members, who will report later.

Chestnut Hill Horse Show to Attract Many, Says Betty Alden

By BETTY ALDEN.

THE usual sport-loving riders and spectators will be on hand at the Chestnut Hill Horse Show, to be held Memorial Day on the Chestnut Hill grounds of the Longwood Cricket Club. This is the 20th annual show.

Each year the youngsters make a fine showing, and there will surely be keen competition for the awarding of the Francis W. Lee Memorial Fund Cup. In the class for saddle horses, there's always plenty of good-natured rivalry for possession of the Montgomery Rollins Memorial Cup, to be won three times by same owner.

The jumping never fails to provide its quota of thrills. The Nora Saltonstall Memorial Cup is bound to bring a good-sized string of qualified hunters into the ring, the latter to be shown over four successive fences of about four feet. Conformation and manners to count 50 per cent, performance making up the other fifty.

Entries for the show close Wednesday, May 16, just a week from today. The committee in charge include Messrs. Andrew Adie, Prescott Bigelow, Clarke T. Baldwin, George Prest, Chester A. Howe, Louis K. Liggett, W. Eugene McGregor, Leverett Saltonstall, Edwin S. Webster, Jr., A. Winsor Weld and George S. West.

QUITE a few Bostonians went down to White Sulphur Springs for the annual meeting of the Investment Bankers' Association held there. Though discussions and committee meetings occupied some of their time, the large group of men gathered found not a little time for recreation.

Phillip Dalton of Boston, one of the vice-presidents of the association, gave a dinner at the Greenbrier the other night for seventeen of the bankers and their wives. Among the Boston guests were N. Penrose ("Buck") Hallowell and Tom Gannett, both of whom were close chums of the host during his Harvard career. Later the party attended the movies and then joined the dancing.

With the close of the meeting at White Sulphur, Tom Gannett joined Mrs. Gannett at Hot Springs, where the Boston colony includes also Mrs. Tom Motley, the George E. Halls and Mrs. Oscar Iasigi, all of whom spend much of their time on the trails there.

Apropos of Hot Springs, Mrs. Edward Everett Blodgett of Boston has concluded her sojourn there and is returning North with her two daughters, Mrs. William M. Sheddin and Miss Dorothy Blodgett.

OF the sprightly group helping to make a success of "Rush and Wrangle," the Vincent Club show, was Miss Rosamond Murray, debutante daughter of Dr. and Mrs. T. Murray of Marlboro street. She was one of the dancing girls.

Miss Murray, who spent the week-end out Concord way, is a sister of Miss Mary Murray, who has been studying in England for the past two years, with only occasional visits home. Her brother, Edward M. Murray, is also studying in England, and the other day their mother, Mrs. Murray, sailed abroad for a visit with them.

FARRAR IS HERE; TO ROAST OR PRAISE LOU?

Sniff, sniff—mystery.

Farrar's in Boston. That's not mystery. Just news. But Farrar's in New York. That's mystery.

A reporter was dispatched to the Touraine, where it was reported the Boston nightingale was resting for the nonce. The day per mom clerk said yes, Miss Farrar was registered, and was at that moment in her room. Room 329. "Better not bother her just now. You know how those opera singers are. Hate to get up before noon."

But the giant nocturnal pressers were waiting. To the housep hone went the intrepid reporter.

Dialogue:

"Hello. May I speak to Miss Geraldine Farrar?"

"This is Miss Farrar. What is it? Who is it?"

"This is a reporter."

"Oh, Miss Farrar is not in."

"Where is Miss Farrar?" (Clever work, this.)

"She's in New York."

"Ah, then she has a dual personality."

Click.

Take it for granted that the Melrose Songbird is really in Boston. What is the purpose of her visit? She won't tell. It is possible only to conjecture. It is nosed about that Lou Tellegen, who is related to the Sweet Singer of New England, by marriage, is due to start his stuff at Lynn next week.

Is Gerry on hand to welcome Lou? Reconciliation, maybe? Or does the Hub's Own Diva purpose buying a box and giving Lou the early Spring raspberry? Last Spring the Peerless Prima Donna looked over the Searles estate at Methuen with a view to purchase. Is that the answer? Page the real estate editor. Maybe the De Luxe Diva is going to settle down in Methuen, In Peter my she celebrated her forty-first birthday. Cattish to mention it, but mysteries must be solved.

Sniff, sniff.

EXPENSE OF FILMING PUTS BIG DENT IN SCREEN SALARIES

NET PROFIT TO STARS IS SMALL

Have to Bear Entire Cost of the Production and Are Paid Only for Completed Picture

New York, May 9.—The gross salaries of moving picture stars, as published by busy press agents, are one thing.

But the net profit to the stars—Ah, those are "something else again," as Potash & Perlmutter used to say.

James D. Williams, founder and until recently general manager of First National Exhibitors Circuit, Inc., put a crusl dent in the actual profits of the screen stars in testimony before the Federal Trade Commission, which seeks to find whether the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation is a trust.

Constance Talmadge — Katherine McDonald

He said the first contract the First National made was the famous million-dollar one with Charlie Chaplin. It called for eight pictures. It was the biggest contract First National ever made and the cheapest in the long run. Then Williams shed new light on why it was a cheap contract.

PAY ALL EXPENSES.

He explained that the film stars were paid for the completed negative. Out of the contract money the star had to pay all expenses of making the picture. Such expenses included:

Salaries of director, camera men and supporting cast.

Building of sets and location costs.

Film negative and traveling expenses.

What was left was "velvet" for the star. But in most cases, it appeared, the star's real profit was nothing to furnish many thrills.

Williams scheduled some of the larger contracts—in which production cost must be deducted before the star's "velvet" is reached.

Olga Petrova—$80,000 each for eight pictures.

COST $250,000 EACH.

Mary Pickford—$250,000 each for three.

Norma Talmadge—$160,000 each for eight, then $350,000 each for twelve and a percentage of the net profits. The second lot of films probably cost her $200,000 each to make.

Constance Talmadge — $110,000 each for six pictures and $300,000 each for 12.

Jack Pickford—$50,000 each for four.

Katherine MacDonald — $100,000 each for six; then $200,000 each for 12.

Charles Ray—$100,000 each for 12, plus percentage of net profits. First National paid $100,000 for the movie rights of the farce "Twin Beds."

The First National paid about $20,110,000 in four years for production costs and salaries of stars in its big feature films.

Washington—President Harding's trip to New York tomorrow to attend a reception to General Ballington Booth of the Salvation Army has been cancelled because of pressure of public affairs.

APPEALS SENTENCE IN SHOPLIFTING CASE

Miss Williams was one of four girls found guilty of stealing from Boston stores. They were sentenced in Municipal Court, three to Deer Island and one to Sherborn. One fainted when sentence was pronounced by Judge Murray.

BEVERLY WILLIAMS

are, esthetically, as fine as real rubies. Nevertheless, don't hurry to sell your real precious stones. The African lady selects her nose rings and the white lady her diamond rings for no esthetic reason.

Startling news number two tells you the sun is disintegrating. Photographs of the corona show fine particles of matter flying off in all directions, carried by the force of light rays. Light is a form of radio activity, and because light is matter, a light ray coming from a distant star bends in toward the sun, obeying Newton's law. That's a phenomenon that so greatly excites the Einsteinians.

THE SUN has been throwing off matter in light for a thousand million years, and can afford it. The whale swallows tiny creatures as it ploughs the seas, and so our sun takes in solid food traveling through infinite space. Halley's comet lost part of its tail the last time it visited us. The sun ate it, and we got part of it in sunlight. Very interesting, much more so than any ordinary miracle.

MONSIEUR SIKI, dark fighter from Senegal, visited Maxim's restaurant leading a tame lion with a rope around its neck. The diners left. In Tutankhamen's day, Siki's ancestors were thunderstruck at the sight of a Pharaoh driving his war chariot, a trained fighting lion running ahead of him, to slaughter black enemies. Now Siki, himself the lion of Paris, leads his own tame lion and white men flee before him. It must please that simple intellect.

THE GREEKS have learned something from Versailles and the famous treaty. Venizelos warns the Allies at Lausanne that Greece will not pay a dollar in reparations to Turkey, although Turkey won the war. Greece would rather go on fighting, and she's right. It's cheaper, as Germany knows now.

2-CENT GAS TAX ASSURED OF PASSAGE

Representative Henry L. Shattuck of Boston, chairman of the powerful House Ways and Means Committee, declares that the two-cent gas tax bill will pass the Legislature, overwhelming the scant opposition that will be raised against it.

"There is little or no opposition against this bill in the Legislature," said Representative Shattuck.

Henry L. Shattuck

"Its opponents will be surprised at the small show of strength the opposition will display.

"Governor Cox favors the two-cent tax and the Commissioner of Public Works also favors it. Everyone realizes that the roads are being destroyed by the autos and that the autos should pay. If the auto interests are strongly opposed to this bill, they have failed to show any indication of active work against it."

A two-penny a gallon tax will raise about $5,000,000 a year. All of it will be paid by the auto owners and drivers.

The bill has already been ordered to a third reading. It will be held a few days until Attorney-General Benton gives an opinion whether a gas tax can be levied constitutionally. The fight for and against the bill will be made after that opinion is received.

2 EMPLOYEES HELD FOR FACTORY THEFT

Leominster, May 9.—Search of a tenement at No. 242 Sixth street by Acting Inspector P. J. Casey revealed enough celluloid combs and novelties to stock a store. In consequence, Antonio Battistella and Italia Benedetti of the same address were charged with larceny from the Viscoloid Company by which they were employed.

Autos Will Kill 220 Tots in State This Year, Is Prediction

Two hundred and twenty children will be crushed to death beneath the wheels of motor vehicles in Massachusetts this year, and 5,854 will be maimed or injured.

These are statistics based on accurate observation, soon to glare at motorists from billboards and signposts throughout the State, as part of the safety campaign of the Massachusetts Safety Council and the State Roads Federation, in cooperation with Frank A. Goodwin, registrar of motor vehicles.

"Mothers! Help prevent auto accidents. Don't let your children play on the streets," is the warning to be flashed from the posters.

The danger is greatest in congested districts. Of a total of forty-four persons killed in the State in April, nineteen were children, an increase of 5 per cent. over the corresponding month in 1922.

TIKHON REFUSES TO UNFROCK

Moscow, May 8 (By Associated Press)—When notified today by a committee headed by Metropolitan Peter that he had been unfrocked by the church conclave, Dr. Tikhon, former patriarch of all Russia, flatly refused to remove his priest's robes.

"Who are those strange bishops?" he asked. "Who decided that I am no longer a clergyman?"

The committee visited the former patriarch at Donskoy monastery to which he had been removed from prison.

The conclave has granted full independence to the Ukrainian church to combat the Tikhonites and the reactionary elements.

Krasnotsky, head of the Living Church, aws offered the title of Archbishop of Petrograd, but he refused it.

ASSASSIN AGAIN FIRES ON STUDENT

Williamstown, May 9.—The mysterious shootings which have alarmed Williams ollege continued with a gun battle in the basement of Williams Hall, in which a student believes he wounded one of the two intruders who attacked him and left him unconscious.

William E. Conklin of New Rochelle, N. Y., the victim, is the same student who had a narrow escape previously when two bullets were fired into his room.

ONE OF GUARD.

Conklin was one of the guard of students and police who have been on duty since the outbreak of the series of shootings. The guard is redoubled today with students and patrolmen of the Williamstown force heavily armed and under orders to shoot to kill.

In the latest outrages others of the guard were attracted to the basement of Williams Hall by three reports of a pistol. They found Conklin unconscious on the floor. According to his story a stranger man opened fire on him when he started his nightly patrol. He returned the fire and the intruder fell on the floor apparently wounded.

ASSAILANTS ESCAPE.

Before he could reach his fallen assailant, he says, a second man appeared and struck him over the head. His injuries are not serious.

The whole college turned out to hunt for the intruders but searched without success. There are several exits to the basement through which they might have escaped.

Roy Southwick, a taxi driver, has reported to the police that he was fired upon as he was returning to North Adams after bringing a party of students to their dormitory here.

"Harding and Cecil" to Be Next Ticket, Says Moses

New York, May 9.—Senator Moses of New Hampshire ended a stinging interview with the suggestion that he understood the next Presidential ticket would be Harding and Cecil. He added that the President's world court program was "very popular—in Europe."

Europe, the Senator said, is "a hotbed of hatred" and he had been left wondering "if they hate each other more than they hate us."

Declaring against entangling alliances of any kind, the Senator said:

"I was propagandaed wherever I went on the other side, but it won't help. I don't think the Senators opposed to the President's plan 'will be dragooned into it. I read in Europe of what Lord Robert Cecil had to say in his speeches here. I wonder what would have happened if I had got on my hind legs and preached propaganda in Paris or London."

TEACHER FACES GRILL IN DEATH OF YOUTH

Kent, Ct., May 9. — State and county authorities today renewed investigation of the mysterious death of Frederick Carter, nineteen years old, whose body was found in the Housatonic river riddled with shot three weeks after he disappeared from his home here.

Miss Jennie Barker, the kindergarten teacher of thirty-two years, in whose home the boy had resided and with whom his name had been linked in a love affair, was to be questioned. An inquest will be held when the investigation is completed.

PHILOMATHEIA CLUB MASS TOMORROW

Tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock the annual mass of the Philomathela Club will be celebrated at St. Mary's Chapel, University Heights, to be followed by a breakfast at the Commonwealth County Club and the last general meeting of the year. The soloist will be Mrs. Marie Horton Spencer, and Mrs. Charles Hall will preside at the organ.

A reception and luncheon is to be tendered the president, Mrs. Vincent P. Roberts, at the Copley-Plaza, Monday, May 21, at 1:30 o'clock on her return from Europe.

EMBRYO MOVIE STARS GIVEN THREE DAYS MORE TO ENTER

RUSH FOR ROLES IS HEAVY

Costs Nothing to Enroll; Just Bring a Casting Coupon From American

Here's good news for those who are interested in the Boston American-Hodkinson Corporation project to produce a two-reel picture in Boston with local amateur talent.

It had originally been planned to start production of the picture today. But the interest has proven so great, and there have been so many applicants for positions in the company, that it has been decided to extend the time for lining up the cast until Saturday.

THREE MORE DAYS.

A large number of letters from out of town points were received, asking that this be done, and although all plans had been completed to start the camera grinding on the first scenes today, it was decided to allow three more days.

Every day until Saturday, from 9 a. m. until 11 a. m., Director L. R. Brager, under whose personal supervision the picture is to be made, will await candidates in the lobby of the Park Theatre.

Already several persons have been selected for the cast, but there are still more than a score of parts open.

ALL AMATEUR CAST.

For those who are not familiar with the plan to make the two-reeler, we will give the salient points:

1. The picture is to be called "The Affairs of Lady Boston."

2. It is to be a satirical version in two reels of the picture entitled "The Affairs of Lady Hamilton," which is now playing at the Park Theatre.

3. Every member of the cast of the two-reeler is to be selected from among the applicants who present the Casting Coupon printed in this issue.

No professional actors are to be used in the making of this picture. Everybody in New England is eligible—men, women and children. The only ones barred are those employed by the Boston American and the Hodkinson Corporation.

EVERYTHING FREE.

There is to be no expense attached to participation in this picture. Make-up and any costumes necessary will be furnished. The picture will be directed by Mr. Brager, who is producing director of the Hodkinson Corporation. Hill Spooner, star camera of the company, will turn the crank. Interior scenes are to be made in a local studio, and exteriors will be shot all over Boston.

Interest is so great that instead of making one print of the completed picture, a dozen will be made, and plans are under way to show these prints in theatres all over Boston.

This is the greatest chance ever offered to those ambitious to get a start in the movies. You will be given an opportunity to act in a regular production, and if you are a good screen possibility the Hodkinson executive in New York will have a chance to take more than your mere word for it.

BRING YOUR COUPONS

A list of the theatres where the completed picture will be shown will appear in this newspaper later.

If you want your chance to get into the movies, call at the Park Theatre lobby today, between 9 and 11 a. m., and ask for Mr. Brager. Be sure to bring one of the Casting Coupons of the Boston American with you. That is the only requirement.

Watch later editions of the American for further details of this picture.

GIRLS ASPIRE TO ROLES ON SCREEN

FIREMAN DRIVES AUTO THROUGH FLAMES

Dartmouth, May 9.—A forest fire burned over some seven square miles of woodland in the northerly section of the town and caused a damage of $10,000.

Clarence H. Brownel of the Dartmouth fire department, drove his automobile up a deserted wood road, but the flames jumped it before he realized what was happening. In order to make his escape he had to drive through nearly 100 yards of flames and the sides of his car were blistered by the heat.

CANDIDATES FOR BOSTON FILM

Four more entrants for parts in the American-Hodkinson Corporation production of "The Affairs of Lady Boston," to be made in this city with all Boston amateur talent. Top, left, Miss Peggy Page; right, Miss Flora Morford, who are under consideration for the role of "Lady Boston," below, Billie Ellis O'Connor and Louis Moller, who may have a chance to demonstrate they are just as clever on the screen as the Lee Kids and Jackie Coogan.

SHERIFF AND 86 INDICTED IN RUM PLOT

Wheeling, W. Va., May 9.—Eighteen indictments charging eighty-seven men, among them Sheriff Harry Clouse of Ohio County, with conspiracy to violate the national prohibition law, were returned here by a Federal Grand Jury following a two weeks' investigation into an alleged liquor combine, the ramifications of which are said to have extended into several States and to have involved liquor deals running into millions of dollars.

Sheriff Clouse was the first of the accused to be arrested by government agents.

Federal authorities attached much importance to the indictment against Clouse, as they declare he was the principal figure in the $2,000,000 swindle involving the sending of five carloads of alcohol from the Old Hickory Powder Distillery in Tennessee to a bootlegging combine in Wheeling.

FIREMEN AWAY AS HOME TOWN BLAZE RAGES

Cherryfield, May 9.—While the Cherryfield fire department, consisting of one combination motor truck, was fighting another fire, four buildings were destroyed here with property loss of $10,000.

A fire in buildings owned by L. Leighton of Unionsville, six miles distant, threatened adjoining buildings and the Maine Central Railroad station. The prompt and generous arrival of the Cherryfield motor truck saved the station and the threatened buildings.

But, meanwhile, fire broke out in Cherryfield in the large wooden building owned and occupied by Susie E. McClure. The McClure dwelling and millinery store was also destroyed. The dwelling of Judge L. C. Haycock was but slightly damaged. An unoccupied house belonging to E. K. Wilson, and a house and stable owned by Mrs. G. R. Davis, both valued at $2,000, burned down. A house and stable belonging to Mrs. Lora Wilson, a quarter of a mile distant, was set on fire by sparks. The fire was extinguished with a loss of $1,000. At one time seven buildings were burning.

RED JOURNALISM IN THE LAND OF BOLSHEVIA—THE FRONT page of "The Poor Man," published by the Committee of the Russian Communist party in the city of Kazan, in Soviet Russia. The person who brought this copy of a Soviet newspaper to Boston risked death in order to do it.

RED JOURNALISM

The Boston American is the only evening paper in this city which prints complete box scores of the baseball games on the day the games occur.

In Russia the Soviet press doesn't print the box scores at all. Not our kind of box scores. The only kind of box scores they have in the Land of the Spree and the Home of the Grave is the daily tally of pine box coffins, in which are placed the bodies of the "traitors" who fail to agree with the "patriots." There is only one thing in Russia today that is cheaper than the ruble, and that's human life.

The Soviet government is not proud of its newspapers. To be caught taking one out of Russia means death. So many things mean death in Russia today.

A friend of Hub-Bub risked her life to bring over a copy of a Soviet paper. It wasn't worth it. The name of the paper, roughly translated, is "The Poor Man." It is the official organ of the Communist government of the city of Kazan, in Soviet Russia, and is published by the committee of the Russian Communist party. Everything is done by committee in Russia.

Spree of Ivan in Full Blast

The issue of "The Poor Man" which is in our hands is dated Saturday, June 14, 1919. This was in the period of the Russian revolution before the hangover, when the spree of Ivan was in full blast. You can tell a country or a city by the newspapers it keeps. A newspaper reflects the thoughts, the ideals and the aspirations of its readers. No country but England could publish the London Times. No land but France could publish La Vie Parisienne. And no country but Russia could publish anything like this newspaper, whose title means, "The Poor Man."

There being no tradesmen in Kazan after the revolution, the paper carries no advertisements. There being no laughter in the hearts of the people, there is no humor in the paper—no Mutt and Jeff, no Katzenjammer Kids, no Barney Google, no Jiggs, no Abe Kabibble.

Across the entire page, instead of a news headline, appears a paragraph which appears to be a standing form, a ritual, a declaration. Loosely translated, it reads:

"There is no strength strong enough to destroy the might of the working peasant or to bring back the capitalistic knout and the whip."

Two columns are devoted to the movements of Red troops under the general heading "The Red Front." Under the heading of "Foreign News" are a collection of items, all of the same general trend—items which denounce various elements, parties and nations for their enmity to the Soviet government. The British are harshly berated for the alleged illegal capture of a Soviet warrior; the Finns are bitterly scolded for their lack of interest to the Communistic trend.

"The Poor Man," appropriately enough, is printed on coarse brown butcher's paper.

WAR HERO SLAIN IN PARIS

Former Harvard Student Shot in Back While Walking With Friends

To be murdered today while walking in Paris, France, after having flirted with death in varied services in the World War, was the fate of James Millet Parmelee, former Harvard student.

Parmelee, who was chief clerk of the Paris branch of the Guarantee Trust Co. of New York was walking with two friends through the Boulevard Malesherbes. Shots were fired from behind them and Parmelee dropped with two bullets in his back.

Parmelee's home was in Yonkers, N. Y. He attended the public schools in Cleveland and Buffalo and was a graduate of Exeter Academy. He entered Harvard in 1915, where he was a student until May, 1917, when he became an ambulance driver in the American Field Service.

He served in this capacity until November, 1917, and then joined the American Red Cross Ambulance Service. In April, 1918, he enlisted as a private in the French Foreign Legion and served with the French army for the remainder of the war.

In recognition of his valiant service with the French army he was awarded the coveted croix de guerre and in March, 1919, was commissioned a second lieutenant by the French.

At the time Parmelee was killed police were attempting to arrest a criminal wanted by the British authorities. This man ran into the boulevard where Parmelee and his companions were walking. As he seemed about to attack the gendarmes opened fire. One theory of the police is that stray shots killed Parmelee.

"We were walking together and chatting when suddenly I heard two shots in rapid succession," said M. Vignaud, one of Parmelee's companions. "We slowed down and were speculating as to where they came from, when there were two more. Jimmy fell and died almost instantly."

WARE FREED ON SWINDLE CHARGE

Former Broker Defends Own Case Against Two Complainants

"Broken promises do not make a swindle. This is one of thousands of cases where rosy hopes have gone glimmering. This case, if there is a case, belongs on the civil side of the court. It is not a criminal case."

Saying this, Chief Justice Bolster in Municipal Court today discharged George L. Ware of Brookline, former Congress street broker, in two larceny complaints over sales of stock.

Ware successfully defended his own case. The government could not show that the stock never was purchased by Ware for the two complainants. The latter were Miss Beulah Thornton of Newton, who alleged larceny of $265, and Charles W. Grossmith of Arlington, alleging larceny of $250.

At the close of testimony Judge Bolster asked: "Will either of you complainants say or can the government prove that the defendant lied or misrepresented his stock at the time of sale?"

The complainants could not go so far as to swear to that. They did testify that they gave Ware money to buy St. Lawrence Mining Corporation stock which never was delivered to them; also that no refund had been made.

Ware, cross-examining them from the bar enclosure, explained to the court that he had sold both clients within reasonable time after the money was paid to him that he had discovered the stock to be worthless and had offered to refund when finances allowed him to.

Miss Thornton asserted she had never frequented brokers' offices before. Grossmith admitted receiving a receipt for his money.

GORDON CASE JEWELS

DOROTHY GORDON

That more jewels than are shown were left by her mother to the heiress now confined in McLean Asylum is the contention of Attorney Sheehan who is trying to trace them.

LASHED BY WHIPPING BOSS

Rescued From Florida Senator's Place by Woman's Intervention

Tallahassee, Fla., May 9.—Mrs. Thelma Franklin, wife of J. E. Franklin, postmaster and storekeeper at Glen St. Mary, told the legislative committee investigating convict camp brutalities that at least nine deaths among the convicts leased by Senator T. J. Knabb from Baker and other counties had occurred within one year.

Mrs. Franklin told how she discovered Paul Revere White, a Taunton, Mass., youth, "looking like a corpse," while he was serving a sentence at the Knabb Camp, and how White had told her he could not eat the food served at the camp as it was often nothing but grits and greens.

Mrs. Franklin recited at some length the various conversations she had with young White and told how he had complained to her that he was whipped with a strap "practically every day" by John Rodden bury, Senator Knabb's whipping boss.

CHARGES MURDER.

The witness startled the committee when she switched abruptly from the subject of White's alleged mistreatment and declared that Warden Thompson, employed by Senator Knabb, last Wednesday shot and killed Mary Sheffield, a negress, and her daughter, at one of the convict camps. The Sheffield woman was to have been a witness before the committee.

Mrs. Franklin was emphatic in her testimony and all efforts to confuse her proved vain. Senator Knabb sat in the committee room as she related the results of her personal investigation.

"I have nothing personal against Mr. Knabb," she said, "and what I have to testify is for the sake of humanity and to allow the people of the country to know the real truth."

DEMANDS REMOVAL.

As a result of Mrs. Franklin's testimony, the investigating committee immediately passed a resolution declaring J. B. Thomas, State prisoner supervisor, unfit to continue in his post and requested Governor Hardee to remove him at once.

Thomas, in an earlier report on conditions in the Knabb camp, is said to have characterized it as a "human slaughter pen." In a later report he asserted this characterization was an exaggeration.

Judge J. R. Jones, justice of the peace for ten years at High Springs, Alachua County, testified before the committee that he had sentenced White to serve six months and pay a fine of $25 "because White pleaded guilty and looked like a professional hobo."

COLD AND SNOW ARE HEADING EASTWARD

Snowstorms of considerable intensity, accompanied by a sharp drop in temperature, swept rapidly eastward today. Weather sharps predicted, before the official forecast from Washington was received, that Boston was due to get a wintry touch by nightfall.

In New York City a sharp drop in temperature was experienced following a thunderstorm. Colder weather is expected to prevail for the next day or two.

Buffalo and the Great Lakes region was covered today by a snowstorm. The fall was heavy, but the temperature was slightly above the freezing point and much of the snow melted as rapidly as it fell.

From Chicago came news that the Northwest and Middle West as far south as Kentucky were blanketed with snow, the accompaniment to the most unprecedented temperature drop on the records for May.

Practically every State north of the Kentucky boundary was hit by the storm, which in some sections is represented by sleet or a cold rain. Chicago's streets were heavy with slush and wet snow was caked on street cars and automobiles. The temperature dropped below freezing.

No damage to crops, except fruit was expected according to experts because of the continued cold all Spring, but there was no doubt that Spring planting would be greatly retarded and crops suffer from that fact.

Lake Superior and Lake Michigan ships felt their way cautiously through heavy ice floes. Shipping was just getting started through the breaking ice when the blizzard struck.

Forecasters promised no immediate relief from the cold.

On the other hand, isolated spots in the southwest and on the Pacific coast experienced unreasonably hot weather.

Yuma, Ariz., had a temperature of 107 degrees above zero and at Riverside, Cal., the mercury went to 104. In the South, Atlanta reported a rainfall of 1.54 inches preceded a heavy drop in temperature. Electrical disturbances and a hard wind accompanied the rain and damaged property.

JARDINE'S WIFE FAILS TO HEED SUMMONS

Mrs. Lena Jardine of Washington street, Winchester, failed to appear in response to a summons to testify at the hearing as to the accounts of her husband, William F. Jardine, as guardian for Dorothy Gordon.

Attorney John L. Sheehan, counsel for Dorothy's uncle, John C. Gardiner, announced his intention of "immediately finding out why the witness did not appear."

A court deputy exhibited a stamped copy showing that the summons had been duly served.

Mrs. Sue Jordan was on the stand when the hearing resumed today before Master Gilbert A. A. Pevey.

COL. PARSONS OF OLD CADETS DIES SUDDENLY

Lieutenant-Colonel George Edmund Parsons, commander of the 211th Machine Gun Battalion, formerly the old 1st Corps Cadets, died today at his home, No. 62 Brookline road, Brighton.

Colonel Parsons, who served overseas throughout all its engagements with the 101st Engineers of the 26th Division, was a victim of heart trouble. He died suddenly, having visited the State House yesterday.

Born August 8, 1874, Colonel Parsons received a technical education, and eventually became a well-known architect, with offices at No. 15 Auburton place, Boston.

He enlisted in the First Corps Cadets on March 31, 1904, and after passing through various degrees of promotion, was elected a captain in 1917.

When the 101st Engineers were organized, he was made regimental supply officer, and served in that capacity, as well as regimental adjutant and regimental personal adjutant overseas. At one time Captain Parsons commanded a company of the engineers.

SCOLDED 30 YEARS, KILLS STEPMOTHER

Buffalo, N. Y., May 9 (By International News Service).—Scolded and annoyed by his stepmother for the past thirty years, worried by an accumulation of debts totaling $1,200 and driven frantic by the woman's insinuations, which terminated in a quarrel, Julius Kessler, forty-eight years old, of Lisbon street, admitted he murdered Mrs. Pauline Kessler, his stepmother, for these reasons.

Sound asleep in his automobile parked in the rear of a garage, Kessler was handcuffed and then awakened by detectives. A 32-calibre revolver was on the seat beside him.

CAR CRASHSCATTERS RODOLPH'S THINGS

Springfield, May 9.—The private railway car Colonial, occupied by Rodolph Valentine, motion picture actor, was struck by two loaded express cars in the railroad yards here, it was learned today. Valentine was not in the car at the time of the accident.

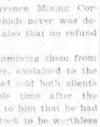
Valentino's belongings were scattered about the car and there was a shower of glass from shattered windows. Damage was repaired so that he was able to continue his trip.

MT. ETNA ERUPTIONS ARE MORE VIOLENT

Rome, May 9.—Despatches received here say that the eruption of Mount Etna is becoming more violent. The flow of lava on the south east side has ceased, but on the northwest it has become greater and is accompanied by the eruption of stones and vast tongues of flame. The spectacle at night is magnificent.

FREIGHT CLERK LEFT ESTATE IN IRELAND

After eighteen years checking freight in and out of the Minot street freight house of the Boston & Maine Railroad, John Quinn of No. 62 Newton street, Somerville, is about to depart for Ireland to become a landed proprietor in County Claire. He has inherited an estate of 180 acres at Ennystimon from his brother.



John Quinn

His fellow freight clerks in the Bunker Hill Union have presented him a watch, chain and fountain pen.

JANVRIN TO MARRY SOMERVILLE GIRL

Harold Janvrin, the former Boston boy, foot infielder and second baseman for the Red Sox, who helped Bill Carrigan and the Sox win a world's championship is to marry a Greater Boston girl shortly the last of this month.

Janvrin is now playing with Seattle. His bride-elect is Miss Kathleine M. Mann, now living with her sister, Mrs. Roy S. Mudbury of No. 42 Minnesota ave nue, Somerville.

Harold Janvrin

Miss McMann will start May 19 for Seattle. The wedding will take place on or about May 29.

MUSSOLINI OUSTS DUELIST DEPUTIES

London, May 9.—Premier Mussolini has expelled from the Fascist party Deputies Pighetti and Murur of Perugia, for fomenting discord and disobeying orders concerning dueling, says a Rome dispatch to the Morning Post. Deputy Pighetti has been imprisoned in a military fortress, the correspondent says. The Italian premier is also reported to have ordered the disbandment of three Fascist legions at Alessandro in consequence of a dispute among rival factions.

REAL "MILLION DOLLAR CANDY KID" IS BORN

"Mary Elizabeth," tea room genius of America, is a mother.

Announcement reached Boston today that a son had been born to Mary Elizabeth and Henry Dexter Sharp, one of the wealthiest men in New England.

His name is Henry, Jr., and he is truly a "million dollar candy kid." He is a heir to his father's millions, his mother's private fortune, his bachelor uncle, Lucien's millions, his maiden Aunt Ellen's millions and the millions of both his childless aunt and her husband, Jesse Metcalf.

Mary Elizabeth is one of the best known women in America, not only because of her reputation as a business genius but more so because of her war work.

During the war days she was "big sister" to thousands of doughboys that dined joyously in the Hotel Regina in Paris, where Mary Elizabeth toiled in the kitchen and then went out to the hospitals to soothe the wounded.

Henry Dexter Sharp is one of the captains of Rhode Island industry, a financial power in the State. He lives in Providence part of the year and his French chateau the rest of the year. His brother, Lucien, is a noted sad daring aviator.

METCALF DISCOVERS SMALL NEW COMET

A message received at the Harvard College Observatory from the Rev. Joel H. Metcalf of Portland, Me., announces the discovery by him of a comet on May 7 in the constellation Ophiuchus, near the star Ophiuchi. The comet was of 9th magnitude, much too faint to be seen without a telescope, and was moving slowly. It appeared round and brighter on the southwest side.

The Lowell Observatory, Flagstaff, Arizona, announces the discovery of a new star by Lampland on May 5, in the great spiral nebula Messier 83. The nova was roughly of 14th magnitude, visible only with a powerful telescope.

USED CARS AND MOTORCYCLES THAT WON'T STAY IN GARAGES

It may seem peculiar, but a Used Car or Motorcycle that is advertised in the Want Ad columns of the Boston American won't remain long in a garage. Somebody sees it and buys it.

If you are a prospective buyer of a motor car or motorcycle, don't buy until you see the bargains offered in the American's Want Ad Section. There you will find attractive bargains offered constantly.

If you want to sell your car or motorcycle you will do well to advertise it in

25,000 IN LINE FOR MOTHER'S DAY PARADE

More than 25,000 men and women will march in the parade in honor of mother on Sunday afternoon. The parade will precede the Mothers' Day observance on the Parkman bandstand, Boston Common, the greatest ever planned in honor of "Mother."

The observance will be under the auspices of the Volunteers of America and the American Legion. The [illegible] originated by Colonel Nellie M. Duncan of the Volunteers of America and is dedicated to the mothers of New England whose sons paid the supreme sacrifice in the World War.

Veterans of the Civil, Spanish and World Wars will be represented in the parade. There will be twenty nations represented by their consuls and more than thirty organizations will have representations in the line of march. The "Gold Star" mothers of Greater Boston will have the leading position in the parade.

Veterans in the hospitals will be special guests of the Volunteers of America and will be brought to the city in touring cars.

Maud Ballington Booth of the Volunteers of America will be center of the day. Mrs. Mary Carr, who has so wonderfully depicted mother in the movies and who in real life is the mother of six children, will be a guest of honor and will appear and address the meeting on the Common.

FOSTER TO SPEAK IN BOSTON SUNDAY

William Z. Foster, widely known radical, who a month ago emerged from a Michigan Circuit Court after five men and a woman on the jury failed to agree that he had violated the State criminal syndicalism law, will speak Sunday night at a labor defence rally in Scenic Auditorium, Berkeley street and Warren avenue.

NEWSPAPERMAN IDENTIFIES MURDERESS

(Copyright, 1923, by Los Angeles Examiner and Universal Service)

Tegucigalpa, Honduras, May 9.—The woman held in jail here on suspicion of being Clara Phillips is—the hammer murderess!

I saw her here and she is the same woman I interviewed in the county jail in Los Angeles during the trial for the slaying of Alberta Meadows.

In her big picture hat and trimfitting suit, she was the same nonchalant, clever, keen Clara — sensational jail breaker and mistress of intrigue.

Next to the identification of Clara herself, the outstanding development of my arrival was the recognition of the fugitive slayer's woman companion.

She is Mrs. Etta Jackson, Clara's "baby sister."

Clara and her sister made two desparate attempts to break out of the Tegucigalpa City Prison, where they are being held, during my visit.

Clara and her sister made their way to a second story window in their jail before they were apprehended. The window has no bars on it and the two women were in a fair way to gain their freedom before two guards appeared.

Both women are "dolled up" in their best finery and are doing their utmost, it is said, to "vamp" everybody who stands in their way to liberty.

SAUGUS ON HUNT FOR FIRE CHIEF

The Saugus Board of Selectmen sent Selectman Herbert M. Forrill-stall to consult with Chief John O. Taber of the Boston fire department to ascertain if there are any officers in his force who might desire to accept the office of Saugus fire chief.

WHITE WAY IN HUB STARTED BY WALDRON

By NICHOLAS YOUNG

IS Boston to have its own Great White Way?

Boy, please page Charles H. Waldron, generally occupied as manager, proprietor and personal director of Waldron's Casino, and incidentally concerned for the moment in turning Hanover street into flaming paradise of midnight gayety. If you don't believe it, take a look at Hanover street tonight as the clock strikes twelve, and then make up your mind that, at last, the sun dodgers are having their turn at bat.

Boston has never been noted for its late-hour revelry, for the spirit of the early Puritan still rules the town and the nightly curfew is anrung only because somebody forgot to place a bell in the City Hall's ample dome. But you are expected to turn in at 9 o'clock just the same and if you linger about the city's thoroughfares later than 11:30. There is almost lost cause for suspicion.

OPENS MIDNIGHT SHOW.

But Charlie Waldron is changing all that on Hanover street, where he is bringing new life to the Spring and Summer season at the Casino by running a midnight show, introducing Jimmie Cooper and his band of black and white entertainers to all late comers. The idea was originally tried out as an experiment in burlesque and it is only fair to believe that not an overpowering faith was pinned upon the scheme.

"How do you expect to get anybody to go to a performance at midnight?" Mr. Waldron was asked. "Everybody's in bed by that hour."

"Why not?" retorted Waldron. "The cafes and jazz restaurants are then beginning to dump their nightly guests into the streets—and besides, we have a great show."

Waldron was right. What started as an experiment in keeping virtuous people out of bed for a couple of extra hours turned itself into a highly profitable venture. For on the first midnight show the Casino was choked with eager humanity, which indicates that Boston doesn't go to bed as early as some of us have believed.

JAZZ CATCHES FANCY.

Of course, the Jimmie Cooper show may have had something to do with this upsetting of the familiar dope. No matter how you look upon it, burlesque is burlesque, but it isn't often that two shows are rolled into one for any purpose, and not since "Shuffle Along" caught public fancy with its marvelous dancing has any group of colored entertainers swept playgoers off their feet in the same fashion that Cooper's dark brown dancers and syncopaters are doing on Hanover street.

And the whirling jazz performers of the Cooper show furnish less than half of the lure that is keeping Charlie Waldron's box office jammed with orders.

Shall we have a Great White Way in Boston? Gosh, Waldron has already made one on Hanover street.

DURANT MEMBERS AT POPS TONIGHT

The third Pop concert of the season will take place in Symphony Hall tonight at which members of the Durant, Inc., will be numerously represented. This night, however, and all nights of the Pops, are open to the public. The program follows:

"L'Arlesienne" Suite, a. 2. ..... Bizet
Tango ..... Albeniz
Hungarian Piano Sc. 2 in G minor.. Brahms

BENEFIT TONIGHT FOR YIDDISH ACTOR

Julius Nathanson will appear tonight at a benefit performance given in his honor at the Grand Opera House. Mr. Nathanson is the son of a prominent rabbi in Detroit and was trained to follow in his father's footsteps, but in his early teens was attracted by the lure of the footlights. He first appeared in vaudeville throughout the country and was then induced to forsake the English for the Jewish stage. Now they call him the Eddie Cantor of the Yiddish stage.

INDOOR PICNIC FOR ELECTRICAL UNION

Arrangements have been completed for the reunion of Electrical Workers' Union, Local No. 703, Friday at the Nautical Garden and Pier at Revere Beach. Special electrical effects have been set up in the ballroom. There will be a vaudeville entertainment and dancing at the Garden and an indoor picnic with carnival at the Pit. The committee is composed of James E. Nichols, George E. Capelo, John F. Queeney, Stephen J. Murphy, John J. Regan, Herbert G. Lowe, James C. Rice and Theodore Gould.

Bright Spots in Shadowland

OTTO KRUGER, one of the bright young stars of the legitimate stage, has finally felt the call of the silent drama and will make his motion picture debut in "Under the Red Hole," the film version of Stanley Weyman's famous story, which Alan Crosland is now directing for the Cosmopolitan Corporation. Kruger will impersonate the character of de Cocheforet. Although this will be Kruger's first appearance on the screen, he is well known to patrons of the speaking stage, having achieved success in more than a score of Broadway plays. At present he is starring in "The Wasp." Previous to that he appeared as the leading player in "Will Shakespeare, Jr.," "Social" and "To the Ladies," which ran for more than a year on Broadway.

Otto Kruger

A MODEST ACTOR!

FOUND—a perfectly modest actor! It's a fact. Ray Coffin, who is representing Richard Walton Tully's screen production of "Trilby," received a blow between the eyes the other day while lunching with Maurice Canon, one of Tully's importations for the "Trilby" cast. He nonchalantly inquired the nature of a huge gold signet ring worn by Canon, and received a reply equally as nonchalant, that the wearer was a count in France, and that this ring was the family seal. He produced his credentials, and seemed wholly unconcerned. Canon is playing "Zouzou" in "Trilby."

Studio Notes

FRED NIBLO, rehearsing Matt Moore and Robert McKim in a scene for "Captain Applejack," said: "This is just for the rough mechanics." He looked around to find a dozen carpenters and electricians behind the camera. "Waddya mean 'rough' mechanics?" asked one of them. "The rough mechanics of the action," explained Niblo.

PRODUCTION of Wesley Barry's latest picture, "The Printer's Devil," has been held up at the Warner Brothers Coast Studios, due to a complete revision of the story.

MARION DAVIES says that when she was a little girl she used to cherish an ambition to study law and that she dreamed night and day of saving men, women and children by her daring oratory. She has a chance to realize a part of this ambition in her Cosmopolitan picture, "Little Old New York," which will be the opening attraction at the new Cosmopolitan Theatre, New York City. As Patricia O'Day she makes a stirring speech before the town council.

ETHEL SHANNON, a promising ingenue starlet, will be co-featured With Gaston Glass in "Daughters of the Rich" when that popular novel by Edgar Saltus reaches the screen. This role is her first appearance in the status of a featured actress.

ZIEGFELD LOSES $6,500 SUIT TO SINGER

New York, May 9.—Olive Cornell, coloratura soprano, whom Florenz Ziegfeld, Jr., dismissed after one week because he and A. L. Erlanger did not think she could sing well enough for the "Follies," won a verdict of $6,500 against the "Follies" producer yesterday.

Mrs. Cornell sued for $10,000, the salary at which Ziegfeld signed her for the year 1920, and also $15,000 for alleged loss of prestige by losing discharged. The $15,000 suit was dropped yesterday, with permission to press it as a separate action.

Olive Cornell

Scene almost similar to "ty-outs" back stage was enacted just before the case went to the jury. Mrs. Cornell insisted that the court hear her sing, so that the jury could judge for themselves whether her enunciation was bad, as Ziegfeld and his associates had claimed.

Justice Burr, however, held that a demonstration would not show how Mrs. Cornell sang in 1920, and the impromptu concert was called off. Mrs. Cornell read the verse of "The Girl of My Dreams," which Ziegfeld had hired her to sing with John Steel. The words were clearly understood throughout the courtroom.

Gene Buck, lyric writer, testified he heard Mrs. Cornell, either at rehearsal or during the opening week of the show at Atlantic City. When she was discharged, he said, a group of chorus girls who merely had been gracing the stage, were taught the song and sang Mrs. Cornell's part of the lyrics.

Asked if he agreed with Mr. Erlanger that Mrs. Cornell had no voice, he replied:

"I would class Mrs. Cornell as an interpreter of melodies. A singer must have two qualities, to produce the tone and also to enunciate, to convey the message of the song. It is absolutely essential that a singer put over the words of a song."

Lowly "Ham and" Now a Royal Dish in England

London, May 9. — Plain, every day ham and beans have been elevated to the aristocracy of foods by the most royal of England's nobility.

The well-known beans are being found alongside the daintiest of delicacies at sumptuous banquets and in the fashionable hotels.

The reason — His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales refused to eat anything else at a recent banquet in one of the most aristocratic homes in England.

LOVELORN BOY SEEKING DEATH DRINKS POISON

Raymond E. Smith, twenty years old, of No. 78 Westland Avenue, Back Bay, is in a critical condition at the City Hospital following an attempt on his part to end his life by drinking denatured alcohol.

The youth told police and hospital authorities that disappointment in love had caused him to become despondent. He had chosen wood alcohol as the easiest way to commit suicide, he said.

Smith was found by the police in the Army and Navy Club after he had collapsed.

ROXBURY MAN HURT AS CAR HITS AUTO

Fred Whery, forty-two years old, of No. 14 Notre Dame street, Roxbury, was injured when the automobile he was operating was struck by a street car a. Northampton and Tremont streets, South End. He was removed to the City Hospital suffering from concussion of the brain and a severe scalp wound.

NEW LAW STOPS 'FIRE PROOF' COAL SALES

In a communication to the special legislative committee appointed to investigate coal conditions and the difficulties leading up to the shortage last Winter, Attorney General Jay R. Benton states that there is little or none of the "fireproof" coal in the State and that none is being shipped into the State since the adoption of the law permitting the seizure and destruction of "unburnable" coal. About 200 tons of such fuel have been seized and condemned.

The information is given at the request of the committee. Attorney General Benton goes into the history of conditions existing before the passage of the legislation, when the poor people of the State were being cheated in the purchase of coal by the bag.

He tells of the effective work done by Jacob Hitzer, special investigator for the attorney general, and offers his services to the committee.

Public hearings will be held by the committee probably next week.

FLOYD JOHNSON A NATURAL BORN FIGHTER, SAYS CORBETT

STRENGTH AND YOUTH TWO BIG ASSETS

(This is the second of a series of six articles by Jim Corbett in which he discusses boxing for the benefit of the Milk Fund on May 13 in New York. The article tomorrow will discuss Jack Dempsey.)

By JAMES J. CORBETT

Former Heavyweight Champion of the World.

New York, May 8.—The night I saw Floyd Johnson in action against Fred Fulton at the Polo Grounds was the first time I had ever seen a boxer who could climb to mighty ethereal heights in the ring if he could only be taught to hit from a solid base rather than while jumping around.

For Johnson has every natural qualification. He has the speed, the punching power, the physical endurance, the ring generalship and the cleverness to box and move with a better boxing frame than this Minnesota boy.

Had a Long Talk With Willie Lewis About Floyd

Just the other day I met Willie Lewis, crafty man of the prize ring in the long years ago. Willie is the man who trained Georges Carpentier how to fight and how to hit. And Willie was I became Johnson's tutor after the Fulton fight, said to me:

"I've been busy with that kid, teaching him two things. One is to get over the habit of leading with his right hand and the other is how to deliver a punch with his whole weight back of it."

"And what's the result?" I asked Willie.

"It's a result that will give the fighting world the surprise of its life when Johnson tackles Willard," replied Lewis. "The whole reason for Johnson's failure in the past to get his whole power into his blows has been due entirely to the fact that he never was trained how to hit properly. I got busy and showed him how and I've found him one of the best pupils that ever came under my tutoring. Watch that boy rock when they toss him in with the ex-champion."

If He Has Corrected the Fault of Leading Right

If Lewis really has corrected the Johnson fault of leading with the right and also has taught him the knack of leading the left body blow his blows, then Johnson will give Willard the surprise of his career when they meet in the Milk Fund affair.

Johnson should have put away Fulton that night in Jersey City in a round or two, if only he had known how to lead with his left two pounds back of each blow. But Floyd had a habit of hitting while off balance, or hitting while leaping, as a result he hit with only the force in his forearm back of the drives.

Few men in the ring today have a better right hand punch than Johnson. That boy seems to love to mix it—fights always in a way that provides plenty of action and gives the crowd a succession of thrills. He is clever, too, and has a fighting brain to a remarkable degree. He has a vital confidence in himself and, beyond everything else, he certainly has the fighting spirit to make a champion.

HOME OF ACTION LIVING UP TO ITS NAME

Red O'Grady.

So, according to Red O'Grady, is Bob McKirdy of the Commercial Club will give O'Grady his stiffest test next Friday night at the "Home of Action" when he carries with "Spike" Bonacorsi of Watham.

O'Connessey is a stiff puncher and a glutton for punishment and his friends from the Watch City will be on hand to back him to take the measure of O'Grady.

Mickey Lagden faces a worthy foe when he tackles Irish Kid Williams of Lynn. Williams may prove a tartar to Landers, and there is sure to be great interest in this bout.

The greatest prospect developed in Charlestown since the days of Joey Connolly will make his debut Friday night. He is Bob Conlon, who has a record of seven straight knockouts.

He will take on Eddie Stoddard of Lebanon, N. H. Stoddard also is reported to be a stiff puncher.

Franklin Zerelli of the South End Athletic Club and Joe of East Boston are down on the card for an eight-round bout while the six-round preliminary will be between Johnny Ryan of Lebanon and Teddy Vacca of Medford

PRINCETON DEFEATS LAWRENCEVILLE, 8-1

Princeton, N. J., May 9.—Princeton won in its annual contest with Lawrenceville, 8 to 1. The victory was due to Fagen's twelfth straight for the season.

BRAVES FANS PEEVED OVER LOSS OF GAMES

shaky pitcher and all—that the best they hoped to do was tie the game again. With that to work on, Mister Donohue settled down and won his pastime.

Tony might have blasted into a double play, but he seldom does that, having plenty of speed. On the other hand, if he had to fly safely, the Beatles would have been pushed right against the wall, and the percentage all in Boston's favor. Further, a crowd likes to see a team take chances and shoot for the victory rather than the more opposition fly to stretch things out.

Defeat May Kill Team's Winning Spirit

This, of course, may be entirely wrong, according to the baseball part of it, but it gives the fan viewpoint at least, and that little thing should be catered to when it doesn't make all the difference in the world. Besides, a team that is let out loses and gets away with it rapidly acquires the winning spirit. The Braves had it on the road, sure enough, and it still must be around. A few days of bad luck can't kill a thing like that. But a few more would be very likely to.

Probably we are pessimistic as we unfurl this. The daily drawings out of the pastime would make anyone that way. Something should be done to hurry the games along, or the customers who live beyond the half-hour limit will all be lost." The well-known wives stand for a lot, but cold dinners too often pave the road to the divorce court.

A number of things contribute to the lengthy tilts. The lively ball has made the pitchers more careful. They take plenty of time. The catchers are always pegging to bases, urging to catch someone off and thereby help out the hurlers. The batters constantly examine balls, looking for rough spots. The tossing out of the onion that has been fouled is the same move, minutes. Packed together, these little things manufacture the additional and boresome half hour that seems to have come into the game. And it's welcome.

Ford Back in Game on Keystone Sack.

Apart from the principal feature of the initial Cincy appearance was the return of Horace Ford to second base. Conlon hasn't been hitting since he came back to the native heath and a layoff may help him. He's been a very busy young man since the first day he rolled into a uniform in Florida.

The Somerville star fanned on his first two times up, but then defeated a hit and showed signs of regaining the batting optic. He made several fine stops and fine plays in the field and was charged with an error on a blow that surely was a hit. Mister Ford has always lauded the apple fairly well, and to our mind is as good around that middle bag as anybody in the league. So it's hard to see him as a better hitter, but not much of a fly chaser. And with the marbles clattering up against the distant fences a good clutcher is an essential nut there.

ZBYSZKO PICKS BRONDWICK TO WIN

Wladek Zbyszko is so confident that his pupil, Frank Brondwick, can lead George Calea to their finish match at the Grand Opera House Thursday night that he has asked the Hellenic wrestler to make the affair winner take all.

Zbyszko says Calea is in for the trimming of his life. He won't be able to stall for time as in the past, and Frank Brondwick can beat him decisively.

Zbyszko is billed to defend his title of champion Graeco Roman wrestler of the world. He meets Frank Hackenschmidt in another finish bout in the double windup.

Should Calea defeat Brondwick he will have George Kotsonaros, Stanley Stasiuk and Wladek Zbyszko to reckon with in finish matches. Renat Gemeau also demands attention, and if Gardini is agreeable the Howard management stand ready to match the four men in an elimination tourney.

CORK MEN PLAN BIG ATHLETIC FIELD DAY

Many noted athletes from colleges and athletic associations will enter in the athletic events to be held on the grounds next to the Knights of St. Finbar.

Corkmen's Association, to be held as usual on Russell Field, North Cambridge, on Memorial Day, will be a competition to which all Irish events will endeavor to lower records. Tom Driscoll, who will be against the committee in the management of the athletic events.

The schedule of events includes Gaelic sports among some of the best teams in the State, including a hurling match between the Emmetts and the Galways, a football game between the Kerry and Lowell teams and a hurling match between Young Irelands and the Redmonds, and a match between the fast Cork and Galway teams.

There will also be amateur events, [illegible] dash, 880 and one-mile runs. The Gaelic A. A. track events include 100-yard dash for boys and girls under 14 years, sons and daughters of Corkmen; 100-yard handicap race for members of the Irish County Clubs and the Gaelic A. A., and a mile relay race for boys under 18 years from various districts of Greater Boston.

TESTIMONIAL FOR SWIMMER TOTH

Charles Toth, considered by many to be the champion distance swimmer of the world, will be accorded a testimonial by his admiring friends on Friday evening, May 11, at the Municipal Hall in South Boston. The proceeds of the affair, which is to be held under the auspices of the Charlie Toth Associates, will be used to defray the expenses of Toth's 1923 try to cross the channel. Toth attempted to cross the English Channel last year. It was not until he had been in the water more than thirteen hours, and had swum from Shakespeare's Point, England, to within a mile and a half from the French coast that he was taken from the water, completely exhausted. Toth has announced that he will try the swim again, and is now whipping himself into shape at the L Street Baths.

JOHN PESEK MAKES MAT FANS SIT UP

FORBES' VIEWS ON FINANCE

—By B. C. Forbes—

Each new age sees new leaders bringing new opportunities for making fortunes and a new batch of millionaires.

These opportunities are more than the lifetimes of our parents, and the near future promises to be still richer in opportunities for making big fortunes in this country.

Of course, ever since industry began to be conducted in a sizable scale, fortunes have not only been possible, but numerous in America. The bigger the scale industry reaches the bigger become the opportunities and the individual fortunes.

* * *

In the days of the original Vanderbilt and the original Astor, few fortunes were made outside of railroading, real estate, banking and trading.

For a time, railroading yielded the largest fortunes, some of them made through speculation—often questionable speculation—rather than through [illegible] of new [illegible] development.

* * *

Some "forty-niners" became rich men and from then on gold mining, silver mining, and copper mining have produced a considerable number of millionaires and multi-millionaires.

Then there came the original Cyrus McCormick with his reaper, and several fortunes flowed therefrom.

* * *

A little later came Phil Armour and Gustavus Swift with what was then the novel industry of packing. This industry has afforded quite a few men the means of making fortunes.

Marshall Field, A. T. Stewart, Wanamaker and others developed into large scale merchandising, and since then many merchants have graduated into the millionaire class.

When the Pennsylvania oil fields were opened up they attracted a great many adventurers. John D. Rockefeller was early on the scene, and few industries have been responsible for as many multi millionaires.

* * *

Carnegie was in almost at the start of the steel game, and of course this basic industry has landed scores of men in multi millionairedom—the sub-title of Cawson's book, "The Romance of Steel" is "the story of a thousand millionaires."

Coke, closely allied with steel, produced Multi Millionaire Frick and a few other wealthy individuals.

Traction enterprises, especially in New York and Chicago and other large fields, proved a lucrative field for quite a number of business men and politicians.

* * *

Since the tobacco industry grew to gigantic proportions, it has made its quota of millionaires.

So has the lumber industry.

So has the chemical industry.

So also the cotton and the woolen industries.

So have engineering and contracting.

* * *

Coming nearer the present day, we have seen leaders in the great electrical field build up huge businesses and huge fortunes—and doubtless we shall see many more electric mill owners.

* * *

Then think of the enormous crop of millionaires produced by that modern invention, the automobile. Without question it has led in transforming poor men in to rich men during the last twenty years. Men still work in muddle ills were in at the lighting of this Aladdin's lamp.

* * *

And what of that still more modern wonder of the age, the aeroplane? Surely it will afford opportunities it has afforded and of what fortunes it has created.

Then take the radio. Is it not a fair set of offering huge fortunes to many men to attain fame and fortune in abundant measure?

Would it be rega ded as rash to predict that the day is not far distant when the manufacturing of flying machines will create as many millionaires as has the automobile?

* * *

Inventors we have always had with us but apart from Edison, few have become famous for wealth. However, this interesting field will doubtless produce more millionaires in future than it has in the past.

* * *

production is the order of the day.

* * *

The shipping industry has attracted the son of America's most spectacular tailored millionaire of the present day, S. Hutcheon. Looking ahead, the outlook here is not barren of promise.

* * *

We have not yet industrialized agriculture, so to speak. But the prospect is that we shall by and by have as towering leaders and as well known millionaires in agriculture as in any other line of activity.

* * *

Wits of the stage would have us believe that boot-legging offers the only road to multi-millionairedom these days. The truth is that there pathways to millionairedom have been opened up during the present generation than ever before, and tomorrow the pathways will be still more numerous—for those who know how to find them and how to tread them success fully.

Medbury Says---

By John P. Medbury

SOMETHING that you very seldom see any more is the old style picture of the bride and groom taken on their wedding day.

PHOTOGRAPHS cost money and most people get married so often nowadays that they can't afford to have so many pictures taken.

ONE guy had ten or fifteen wives during his lifetime, and the only way he could remember each wife was by putting her name on the back of each photograph.

AND even then once in a while he had to ask the children which one was their mother.

OF course some brides and grooms still have pictures taken on their wedding day, but the average couple doesn't stay together long enough to have the plates developed.

THE best way to do is to have some friend take the pictures with your own camera, and then you've got your first six wives on the same roll of film.

IF you do this you've got something else to remember them by besides the stubs in your check book.

IT'S most impossible nowadays for a man to forget his wife, especially if she's got a good lawyer.

HE doesn't have to have any photographs. If he wants to get reminiscent he can go down to the city hall and read the records in the divorce court.

IF he's particularly fond of fiction he can glance at his mother-in-law's testimony.

BUT, of course, if he's the kind of a fellow who likes hunk he can read her lawyer's closing remarks to the judge.

A LOT of couples have a flashlight photo taken as they're walking down the church aisle. The light is unnecessary; the average couple have been married so often that they can find the altar in the dark.

BUT, as a rule, they have the church well lighted, so that the groom can't get away at the last minute.

HE doesn't care if the church is stuffy, he knows he'll get the air soon enough.

SOME couples have photographs taken, so that they can give the pictures to the paper, but this isn't necessary. If a wife hasn't got a picture of her new husband she can use some other fellow's photo; he'll probably be the next one, anyhow.

BUT, in this way she is always two pictures ahead and one husband behind.

SOME time she'll have to be married without having a picture taken so that she can catch up with the right photograph.

BUT, girls, it's best to be broad-minded. Have several pictures taken of your husband and then you can give one to each of the dames who marry him after you get through with him.

BE THANKFUL FOR A GOOD, KIND HUSBAND.

"I have a good, kind husband, always considerate, thoughtful and amiable about the house; the children love him and the cat and dog run to him when he comes in, but I am not contented because he cannot seem to make money like other men and I cannot have things as nice as my friends."

This complaint voices the feelings of a larger number of women than would be willing to acknowledge it.

Peace, happiness and a certain comfortable companionship, yet there is lack of the money they so desire.

All homes in which there is plenty in a financial way, are not always happy ones.

Great money makers have had a hard fight to get on Easy Street, as a general thing and they have had hard experiences, nerve-racking troubles.

Much time which ought to have been spent with their families has been sacrificed to the contest for money.

The woman who has a good, kind husband is fortunate and should be more thankful for that than for money which does not always bring the peace and joy which home ought to mean.

"I was pleased to note Harold Hendshaw on the winner roster. Parliamentary procedure? The writer surprised to note that he had two heads. Of course my curiosity was aroused, so I motored out and asked him how it happened. He said he was drawn accidentally and that two heads were better than one, so he had grown another. He kindly posed for me while I sketched him."

Alfred M. Joblin, No. 107 Wostford street, Lowell:

A short time ago while busily engaged in my laboratory a group of my friends called on me to send advertising out to the printers. I was making it my line. With the intention of buying them in bulk, I asked the price of 5,000 and then I discussed a universal subject, one which I explained would decide in my mind whether I would buy or not. I was not in contact with them after that.

Today I received a letter from one of the advertising agents. Only I was satisfied to settle each everything that I could in contact with whom I have had no business. Thank you.

Stephen Kent, No. 10 Church street, Belfast:

There are a number of men in this town who all their lives have been trying to prove that the earth had formerly been round. Fifty years and one of them were going to be the ones to succeed, when they found out that the earth was round and always had been round. Finally one of them went to the other and spoke, "Say, Bill, how long is it since you and I have been fools?" The other said, "Oh, I had Saturday the first month, after a course of fifty years' study and experimenting." The second man said, "How?" The first answered, "Same luck, brother. Fried."

A new bill dealing with the national bank taxation question in Massachusetts will be drafted by a sub-committee of the joint committee on personal and corporation taxes, a joint committee for consideration next Tuesday, it was announced by Senator Walter E. McLane.

All bills on the subject of national bank taxation drafted during this session of the Legislature have met with violent opposition to the banks, who claim they are being discriminated against.

National banks in Massachusetts are not willing to pay this year the taxes provided for under present law, even though such an agreement would give the State time to study the national bank tax question more thoroughly.

This is the attitude expressed by C. L. Pattinger, attorney for the First National Bank of Boston, who spoke before the House Ways and Means Committee.

"The tax is unfair and discriminatory and is such a burden to some of the smaller banks they are having difficulty in earning proper returns on their capital," Attorney Pattinger told Representative Henry L. Shattuck of Boston, chairman of the Ways and Means Committee.

He suggested the State might levy a tax of 5 per cent. on the income from national bank shares.

When asked by Representative Shattuck where the State would secure the balance of the taxation it has been getting, Attorney Pattinger replied that estimates for the present taxes of the current year are 25 per cent. higher than those of last year.

Tax Commissioner Henry P. Long declared the income tax estimate referred to had to do with the Federal income taxes and not the State taxes.

Federal cases and Supreme Court decisions are a unit in holding that the tax on shares of national banks shall not be higher than the tax imposed on other moneyed capital, Attorney Pattinger contended. This, he said, was the attitude taken by Congress when it passed the new law.

A Pestless World

What a more enjoyable world this would be if all the household pests shouldn't be eliminated. If such troublesome pests as moths, mice, rats, bedbugs, bugs, flies, cockroaches, waterbugs, chinches and all the rest were sent to the happy hunting grounds of heaven, long-suffering humanity would get a much-deserved rest. As it is, they will be here to stay, and some one must do it, so soon as you conquer your fear of them. Kill them by exercising constant vigilance that a thorough use of Martin's Powders for Household Pests and Martin's Powders for Insects and Animals will keep the troubled house free from pests. Use first one powder at a fire, which are the crucial ones so far as checking it early goes, so as the first appearance of pests the most important thing to do, and would be eliminated. If such troublesome pests as moths, mice and bugs are not completely destroyed they will soon be with us again, so you conquer your fear of them. A WANT AD IN THE EVENING AMERICAN BRINGS SURE RESULTS

Boston is a city of homes. That "homey" atmosphere hangs around it still. You appreciate it when you go away.—Evangelist Percy W. Back.

BOSTON AMERICAN

Largest Evening Circulation in New England—May 9, 1923

Boston's revenue from rapid transit subways and tunnels was $1,690,206, or $106,712 more than interest on this debt in 1921.

Very Bad Advice to Women

From Governor Richardson of California, Who Might Know Better

Copyright, 1923, Star Company

California has capital punishment. The State government sets the example of killing, and killing is not admirable in the individual or in government.

The parent who admits that he cannot bring up his children without whipping them proves that he is incompetent or that he has bred an inferior lot of children.

The State which admits that it cannot govern without calling in the hangman, or the manager of the electric chair, admits weakness.

The farther you get from savagery the fewer you have of public killings.

The Governor of California, F. W. Richardson, believes in capital punishment. So do many other men.

To his own belief the Governor adds this, as quoted in the San Francisco Call:

I believe in capital punishment, and wish that every woman in California would get out and work in behalf of capital punishment.

That extremely bad advice to women shows lack of information concerning the force that has improved this world and started it on the way to civilization.

Doesn't Governor Richardson know that the influence of women has constantly tended to diminish killings, the killing by the individual, killing of the children by an angry father, wholesale killing in war, individual and wholesale "executions" by government?

When women first began their civilizing work on this earth, killing was the RULE. Men killed and ate each other. Slowly and patiently mothers taught little boys that it was disgraceful to eat the body of another human being. Thus we got rid of cannibalism.

Men killed each other in duels. Women fought against that, and gradually duelling became, first illegal, then ridiculous.

Among savages the young man amounted to nothing until he had killed an enemy. Gradually women have shown that that was false ambition. Now, instead of proving that they amount to something by KILLING something, men prove that they amount to something by HELPING somebody.

The world is bad enough, Governor Richardson, without urging women to go out and work to make it worse. Women know that killing is wrong, public or private killing. They know that conscience and religion forbid killing. They know that what is wrong for the INDIVIDUAL is wrong for the STATE.

They know that if powerful government sets the example in killing, saying, "I kill because I wish to," the ignorant, debased, wretched, criminal will follow that example, and say, "I kill because I wish to."

Fortunately women will not take Governor Richardson's advice. They will not work for capital punishment. They know that the original hangman's noose, the electric chair, the executioner's axe are not the "protection for women and children" that the world needs.

Benevolence, justice, the firm governing hand that needs no hangman—THEY make up the right "protection for women and children."

In days when every man was a killer, when the merchant, the bishop, the lord of the manor and the king all had their separate gallows and kept the gallows busy, women and children were not as safe as they are today.

And women and children will be safer than they are now in the near future when public executions are associated, as they should be, with public slavery, public cannibalism and general degradation.

Our "Sacred Cow"

Ridiculous, Perhaps, but Nevertheless OUR Cow

Copyright, 1923, Star Company

The New York Times describes the Monroe Doctrine as "one of the sacred cows of American diplomacy."

The Times agrees that this is a pretty good time to slaughter that sacred cow. The League of Nations covenant spoke of the Monroe Doctrine as a "regional understanding."

However, ridiculous or not, the Monroe Doctrine is the sacred cow of many Americans. And the wise politician, in India or in America, doesn't join any schemes for slaughtering sacred cows. Such slaughtering doesn't make you popular with the people.

Look what happened to the Democrats in 1920, when they had their knife all sharpened to cut the throat of the sacred American Doctrine cow, and substitute the League of Nations for that cow.

The United States can look after this continent, North and South. That is what the United States should do, and leave Europe to look after herself.

The Monroe Doctrine is still a really sacred cow. The Republican party in the coming campaign should remember it.

Perils and Pearls

They Go Hand in Hand at the Bottom of the Sea

Copyright, 1923, by Star Company.

One reason why pearls are so valuable is that they stand for perils.

Almost every pearl in lovely woman's necklace has been won from its natural bed by some adventurous diver who risked his life.

Dale Collins tells of seeing in a hospital at Thursday Island, off the north coast of Australia, a native around whose neck was a ghastly circle of tooth marks. These were caused by a shark, he said, which had swallowed his head, but he had forced him to release him by gouging its eyes with his fingers.

He had been hauled to the surface after a dive, covered with blood and nearly mad with terror.

White pearlers believe, however, says Collins, that it was more likely that he had been attacked by a giant cot. These ghastly fish weigh as much as 500 weight and have a huge head. They lie on the bottom of the ocean bed with their great mouths open and will attack even dressed divers.

Besides, these pearling waters often abound in venomous snakes.

Still the glorious harvest goes on. Last year the value of the crops in New Guinea alone was around £42,000.

OLD YANKEE NAMES IN FAVOR

NORWALK, Ct., May 9.—A plea for retention of old Yankee names for localities here has been made by many citizens.

City officials, in setting aside acres of shore land for a public park and bathing Beach on Long Island Sound, thought the original settlers' name of Calf Pasture Beach not high-sounding enough for modern folks and were amazed at the protest.

THE VOICE OF NEW ENGLAND

No Attention Paid to Anonymous Communications

Street Signs

Editor Boston American:

Some time ago I saw an article in the Voice of New England regarding street signs in Boston. I have been watching, since then, to see if the city of Boston would take any steps toward remedying this very poor condition, and thus far I have seen no improvement.

What is the matter with our City Council, may I ask? And what is the matter with the street department? Street signs are essential in any city and especially in a city of crooked streets such as Boston happens to be.

We hear a lot about a bigger, better, busier Boston. That is just a lot of bunk, for if those who advocate all this were really sincere they would start to wipe out this disgrace that is so apparent to the eyes of newcomers. Get busy, Mayor Curley, and put up some street signs that can be found—and read.

THE HELPING HAND

Do Not Inclose Stamps. Letters Will Not Be Answered Personally. No Attention Paid to Telephone Calls. No Names Are Published.

Clothes and Patchwork

Editor Helping Hand:

Please send me Mrs. K. G. B.'s address, as I have some clothes that she may be able to make use of. Also the address of the elderly woman who wanted pieces of patchwork. MRS. C. M.

ED. NOTE—You will be put in touch with Mrs. K. G. B. and Mrs. M. C. Thank you.

Received Trousers

Editor Helping Hand:

Please accept my thanks for referring me to that clothing company, as they sent my children boy a pair of new trousers and just what he needed. Has anyone some things for the rest of the children? I have a few baby clothes I could send to someone if you will send me their name. Thanking you for your kindness and wishing you success for doing such wonderful work.

MRS. H. B.

ED. NOTE—Your letter is still on our files for clothes for the other children. Glad the pants came in handy, but the thanks belong to the clothing company, who have assisted ten families in this way. You will be put in touch with Mrs. E. F. M., who is in need of baby clothes. Thank you.

For Boy of Five

Editor Helping Hand:

I have a suit of clothes suitable for a boy five years old that I will gladly give to anyone who can use it. MRS. C. E. F.

ED. NOTE—You will be put in touch with Mrs. E. F. M., who is in great need of clothes for her boy. Thank you.

Offers Kitchen Range

Editor Helping Hand:

Will you kindly send me the address of Josephine. I think I have shoes for her. I also have a kitchen range in fair condition if you have a call for one in my locality (Beverly). A. E. N.

ED. NOTE—You will be sent Josephine's address. The range will fill a great need in some family, and it will be held for replies. Thank you.

Wants Girls' Books

Editor Helping Hand:

I would love to have the girl's books that "Verna" says she will give away. I am twelve years old and love to read, but have only a few books. H. M.

ED. NOTE—Her address will be sent you.

Helps Sick Woman

Editor Helping Hand:

I saw in the Helping Hand column about an old lady of sixty-two, ill with rheumatism, who signs her name Mrs. A. B. 2. I have a woman's coat and hat, a pair of boots and rubbers, size 8, if they would fit her, and perhaps other things.

MRS. A. H. H.

ED. NOTE—Her address will be sent you. Thank you.

Run of Bad Luck

Editor Helping Hand:

I have had a boy in the hospital all Winter; my girl has just been discharged from the hospital, and my husband has been out of work for several months, so we have had what I call a run of bad luck. We expect a little stranger in a few months, but as yet have nothing for it. If I could get some things for the two boys, who are ten and twelve, and some baby clothes, I would be very thankful and much happier.

MRS. O. B. 2.

Clothes to Make Over

Editor Helping Hand:

I have picked up some articles and would like them to go to some deserving mother who can sew and is willing to make them over for her children. Wish I had more to give, but what little I have will help to tide someone over. MRS. F. P. 2.

ED. NOTE—All the things in the list you sent will help a mighty lot. You will be sent the address of Mrs. F. B., who is greatly in need of the women's and children's clothes, and of H. E. A., who needs the men's clothes. Thank you.

Dress for Grace

Editor Helping Hand:

Will you please send me the address of Grace. I have a dress and a few things I think may help her out a little. MRS. G. A.

ED. NOTE—Thank you. Her address has been sent you.

Catcher's Mitt

Editor Helping Hand:

I am a boy ten years old. My father is dead, and my mother cannot afford to buy me anything I don't have to have. Could some one give me a catcher's mitt, as I am very fond of baseball?

ROBERT.

Baby Clothes for Mrs. S.

Editor Helping Hand:

I have some new baby clothes I can send to Mrs. S. They may not be all she would need, but would help some. Have given most to a few in need where I live. MRS. E. W.

ED. NOTE—Judging from the list you sent, they will go a long way toward meeting even the exacting needs of a new-born baby. Thank you.

Will Take Child

Editor Helping Hand:

May I have the address of M. G. T., who asked for a temporary home for two children? I will take the older free of charge for a few months if she wishes. I am sorry I can't offer to take them both, but I have two of my own and do nearly all of the work. H. F. S.

ED. NOTE—It will help a lot. Her address has been sent you. Thank you.

For Needy Girl

Editor Helping Hand:

I have some clothes for a needy girl of fifteen or sixteen.

MRS. W.

ED. NOTE—They will be greatly appreciated by Mrs. R. B., who has a girl that age. Thank you.

Summer Dresses

Editor Helping Hand:

I read your column every day, and too much praise cannot be said for the good work it is doing. I have three Summer voile dresses, size 36, a dark blue cape, that might do for an expectant mother, a blue voile dress, size 42, and some pieces of gingham that could be made into dresses for small children. Please send me the address of someone needing the above. MRS. J. H. 2.

ED. NOTE—We couldn't find a single family for all you offered, so have sent you the address of Mrs. W. M. and Mrs. E. M. C. Many thanks.

Will Pay Doctor's Bill

Editor Helping Hand:

If you will kindly send me Mrs. McG.'s address in Friday night's paper I will see that her doctor's bill for the coming baby is taken care of. Good luck to your good work. MRS. E. L.

ED. NOTE—That will be a splendid help to her. Her address has been sent you. Many thanks for the unusual offer.

AN INTERNATIONAL REGENCY HANGS OVER CHINA

By Herbert Kaufman

THE Manchu dynasty was founded by a petty Nuchen raider.

The succeeding republic in turn seems destined to fall before a handful of brigands.

When outlaws dared to capture Miss Aldrich and her train companions all local government thereby confessed its impotence.

History is apt to remember how that episode finally compelled an international regency at Pekin.

Existing treaties wisely forbid the seizure or dismemberment of the country. Its territorial integrity is guaranteed by America and by compacts between Japan and England.

But 400,000,000 people can't be safely abandoned to bloody confusion.

This headless dragon must, for universal sakes, be tied down, or its blind struggles will wreck the biggest and richest piece of Asia.

Shu Shi Chang, Sun Yat Sen and rival bulls have just about smashed China's shop.

Cocks of the Walk Are Always Plucked

Once the dominant kingdom of earth, mistress of learning, pioneer in the sciences and arts, now a bereft, gaunt, old pauper, begging at the chancelleries and bank doors of folk who couldn't count beyond ten, work a loom or write a line, when her learning and magnificences thrilled tradition. What a picture.

How the mighty can fall.

Eternal vigilance is the price of survival. Rome, Greece, Byzantium, Egypt, Phoenicia, at every election beg you to remember what mismanagement may cost.

Careless and overassured cocks of the walk are always plucked.

A Begger Sitting on a Treasure Chest

Twice as old as Christianity and a third larger than the United States, abundantly watered with an acre of cultivated land to every inhabitant, China joined the George society, abandoned civic responsibilities, yielded liberty to bosses and went straight to ruin.

Tea grower, cotton planter, silk producer, incalculably rich in coal, iron, minerals and petroleum, her veins loaded with tin, gold, silver, lead, mercury, tungsten and other precious alloys—sugar producer, wheat raiser and fruit farmer—her children all adept and willing workers—yet the year 1923 finds her bankrupt in State craft, vision, ability and patriotism—without cash or credit and in the shadow of receivership.

The bigger they come the harder they fall.

Take more interest in public affairs.

Fat Geese Must Beware of Foxes

Poincare's policies happily do not involve us in the wrangles to which England is protestingly headed.

London, active party to agreements which France interprets as expediency suggests, must soon make a stand or take a permanent back seat on the reparations question.

All the other nations in the league can't swerve dictatorial Paris.

If their combined arguments and strength is ineffective do you believe that America's added voice and miniature military forces would draw the Poilu from the Ruhr?

That wasn't the role assigned to the United States. The continent's looking for a backer—trouble underwriter and billpayer—not advisors or arbitrators.

Fat geese should keep away from fox dens. Even they know that.

Regiments That Didn't Sail Home

Secretary Mellon would have many times $60,000,000 left in the Treasury at the end of the fiscal year if ex-Secretary McAdoo had been less credulous of the altruism of certain debtors.

Popular sentiment was behind every golden regiment that sailed from Washington. Now we are as ready to cheer their collection. Tricolor and Stars and Stripes lately float above every different attitudes of mind.

Until more respect is paid to our opinions and past services and less to our pockets, Europe won't drag this flag across seas again.

Every fresh development yonder confirms the sagacity of 1920 ballots—even if Mr. Harding and his die-hards don't think so.

Hazing Comes to Judgment

A Grand Jury is grilling the truth out of Leighton Mount's classmates. Hazing itself is on trial at Evanston. Nobody wants to believe that a group of lads, sufficiently intelligent to matriculate at Northwestern University, deliberately choked a fellow to death with handsfull of sand and cold-bloodedly tucked away his body.

But law and order demand unsparing light on the circumstances. If evidence supports surmise, justice won't be satisfied with minor sentences on any participant in that brutal prank.

College pupils are prima facie above the mental average and correspondingly obligated to exemplary behavior. Democracy is without classes. These students must be judged and punished according to their acts and enlightenment, not by age and social status. Morons don't get higher educations.

Too Much Brutality Hereabouts

Brutality is lifting its ugly head in the last places it should be found.

Florida's peonage scandal affronts modern conscience. Greed and torture never left filthier trails than the track which passes through her courtrooms, shrievial offices, State industries and even Legislature aisles. More than one official is forever damned by prison camp investigations.

Florida in turn accuses other commonwealths of maltreating her own folk.

And finally the news sobs a tale of boys confined at an Oklahoma reformatory, regularly beaten up by grown guards, with the approval of the superintendent.

Besides minimum age and wage acts, we manifestly and urgently need drastic statutes to deal with traitorous public servants.
